Explosion of Anti-Foreign Feeling in Senate So Great Administration

LEAGUE OF NATIONS PASSIONS REVIVED

Wind That Hitherto Has Blown Favorably To Adherence To World Court
Suddenly Veers.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Washington, December 16.—A menacing shadow has been cast over the consideration of the world court protocol, which begins in the senate Thursday, by an outburst of anti-foreign feeling unparalleled since the historic League of Nations decision. Administration leaders also are concerned now over the fate of the pending debt funding settlements, at least the Italian and Belgian, which greatly exceeded in liberality the terms of the British agreement.

The explosion in the senate Wednesday was so terrific and so unexpected in its ferocity that the administration quickly abandoned an attempt to obtain immediate approval of the six debt agreements negotiated during the summer.

Investigation Threatened.

Furthermore, there is threatened another one of those senate investigations that strike at the heart of the executive officials of the state. This one would be an unlimited inquiry into the conduct of foreign affairs, to ascertain whether any foreign government or aliens are furnishing money to influence the action of this government and particularly, the senate, to determine the capacity of foreign countries to pay their debts, what loans have been

The resolution providing for this exhaustive investigation was offered by Senator Reed, of Massachusetts. His motion was seconded by Morgan and other international financiers precipitated the debate. It was referred to the foreign relations committee.

Senator Curtis, administration leader, immediately began efforts to kill the committee. Senator Borah, Republican, refused to disapprove of the debt settlements as well as the world bank. He refused to discuss the matter ter the debate. The committee, he said, would not take up the resolution until after the holiday adjournment, as its next meeting is scheduled

POLICE BOARD FAVORS PURCHASE OF NEW CARS

Decision to purchase 15 new motorcycles for the traffic squad and 25 new Ford automobiles for call and other police duty, was reached Wednesday night at a meeting of the police committee of city council, according to Alderman Claude A. Buchanan, acting chairman, following the meeting.

The committee held its final meeting of the year Wednesday night and went into executive session for over an hour. Newspaper men were barred from the meeting, but following adjournment, Alderman Buchanan said that no business of importance was transacted other than adoption of recommendations to buy the new motorcycles and automobiles.

The finance committee of city council will be asked to recommend to council the necessary appropriation for the new motor equipment so that the machines may be purchased as soon after the new year as possible, Alderman Buchanan said.

BITTER FIGHT IS SEEN ON WORLD COURT

For Wednesday. He expressed doubt as to whether there would be enough members of the committee in Washington during the holidays to handle the affair until the senate convenes again in January.

Whether the Reed resolution has a chance will depend largely upon Borah's course. It is quite probable that a substitute will find its way back to the senate providing for a more restricted inquiry than Reed desires.

The significance of Wednesday's debate, however, was that it fanned up anew—just in time for the world court fight—the intense anti-foreign sentiment which enabled the senate irreconcilables to defeat the League of Nations. The tactics are exactly the same as were employed at the beginning of that eventful fight. As was the case then, the irreconcilables are a small, compact group, including the best debaters in the senate, with the deadly Borah-Reed pair running the interference.

Wind Has Shifted.

Whether this group will win, no one can prophesy now. But this fact was impressed on everyone in the senate Wednesday—the wind has suddenly shifted, and whereas it was blowing in favor of the court, it is now blowing against it.

Those participating in the running debates included Reed, of Missouri; Norris, Hiram Johnson, Harrison and McKellar, who expressed dissatisfaction with the debt settlements. Smoot and Reed, of Pennsylvania, defended them. Borah asked one question that might be considered hostile to the settlements.

Adding to the tension was the jealousy that arose in the house, when it was learned that the senate was taking up the debt settlements. The ways and means committee hurriedly met and resolved that it would refuse to consider any bill regarding the debts coming from the senate. House members, always jealous of the upper senate, went around muttering, but the rules forbid open criticism of the other house on the floor. The house members feel that the debt funding agreements are revenue legislation and should, therefore, originate in the senate. Senators, of course, are even more contemptuous of this than they usually are of any ideas that originate in the head of only a congressman.

Court on Calendar Today.

The world court protocol, by an agreement reached during the short session last spring, Thursday becomes the unfinished executive business of the senate. It may be laid aside for the tax bill and some of the appropriation bills, but otherwise it will remain before the senate until disposed of. If debate is prolonged, as now seems probable, an attempt to invoke the existing two-thirds cloture rule to force a vote may be tried.

STORM OF PROTEST OVER DEBT TERMS.

Washington, December 16.—(AP)—A storm of protest against the Italian debt settlement broke in the senate today as Chairman Smoot of the finance committee sought to obtain consideration of this and the other debt agreements negotiated during the congressional recess.

Criticism, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, objected to an unanimous consent arrangement to take up the settlements, and the bills of ratification went over.

Meanwhile, notice had been served by a number of senators that considerable discussion would precede a vote.

While the running fire of debate was in progress in the senate, Chairman Green, of the house ways and means committee, informed the house that, since the debt settlements were revenue legislation, they must originate in the house and that, if the senate acted first, he would ask the house to ignore such action.

Smoot Bears Brunt. Senator Smoot, who is a member of the debt commission which negotiated the agreements, bore the brunt of the senate fire, but Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, frequently came to his assistance. The Utah senator insisted that the Italian agreement was the best that could be obtained and that he had doubt of the ability of Italy to carry it out.

That raises the question of the $100,000,000 which New York bankers made to Italy immediately after the agreement negotiated here was signed. Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, called attention that the interest rate on this loan was seven per cent.

Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, asserted that Italy would pay none of the principal of its debt, that all it agreed to pay was 1.8 per cent interest on the principal over a period of 62 years, and that this arrangement would ultimately cost American taxpayers $5,000,000,000.

Reed Calls It "Whitewashing." The Italian settlement, as well as the British settlement, was characterized by Senator Reed, of Missouri, as a process of "whitewashing" to ruble international bankers to make loans at 6 and 7 per cent.

"The French debt was brought into the discussions, and Senator Smoot warned that unless the French government settled with this country and England, the franc would follow the same course that the German mark did. He also disclosed that when the first French commission came here, it bluntly told the American commission that France did not owe this country anything.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, contrasted France's failure to settle its debt with its military operations, declaring it was conducting a war in northern Africa in an effort to "steal" land and the liberties of a free people.

Full, Free Discussion. Before the debate ended, Senators Johnson, republican, California; Norris, republican, Nebraska; and McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, and joined in giving notice that there must be full and free discussion of the debt settlements.

The Missouri senator urged, as one reason action should be over, that he had proposed an investigation by the senate foreign relations committee of the settlements, and also of loans obtained by debtor nations from American bankers.

CHILEAN APPEALS UPON TACNA ARICA SENT TO COOLIDGE

Arica, Chile, December 16.—(AP)—An official communique issued after the meeting of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission this afternoon says:

"The appeals of the Chilean member of the commission were certified and transmitted to the arbitrator." (President Coolidge.)

The strictest reserve has been maintained thus far concerning the nature of the Chilean appeals and the transaction of the commission, eventually, after smoothing out early difficulties, the vote recorded for certification was unanimous.

It is understood the appeals will be transmitted to the arbitrator by cable, with the request that the arbitrator reply in the same way regarding the manner and time of taking up the appeal.

Divide Second Honors.

E. Stevens and John Brice are tied for second place with 19 subscriptions each while S. A. Lindsay is a close third with 15 subscriptions.

Workers who have secured 5 to 15 subscriptions include Frank Fair, W. K. Phillips, W. B. Farnsworth, H. Blankenship, H. D. Burroughs, W. A. Moore, J. P. Fagan, D. D. Atkinson, Walter Scott, Owen T. Smith, A. C. Hartley, R. B. Eleazer and L. J. Levitas.

One direct result of the telephone campaign is the receipt of 63 subscriptions at chest headquarters in the mail. These subscriptions totaled $700.50. Atlantans are urged not to wait for a telephone call but to phone or mail subscriptions, thus saving the time of the busy operators.

FIVE CONVICTIONS IN LANGSTON CASE

Fayetteville Ga., December 16.—

(AP)—Rainey Cauthern, who, with Melvin Windham recently confessed to participating in a plot to slay James C. Langston, rural mail carrier, near here, more than three years ago, pleaded guilty to the crime in Fayetteville superior court today and was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge W. E. H. Searcy, Jr.

Melvin Brown, convicted last night in the same case and recommended to the mercy of the court, was given a similar sentence. He declared today he had nothing to do with the crime and that his attorneys will petition for a new trial.

Charles Walker, one of the five men named in Cauthern's and Windham's confessions, was placed on trial today. Arthur Alexander will be tried after Walker's case is finished. Solicitor General E. M. Owen has not yet made known his intentions with reference to Melvin Windham, 19-year-old youth, who by confession caused the reopening of the Langston case and the arrest of the five men.

Cauthern and Windham both testified for the state against Charles Walker. Windham said on the stand today that he was to receive either $100 or $150 from Charles and John Waver, brothers, to "help whip Ab Davis" and that it was not his information that anyone was to be killed.

The state rested in the Walker trial at 4 o'clock this afternoon and when court adjourned tonight at 10 o'clock, Walker had introduced several witnesses to support his contention that he was "in the plot" and that he was in Atlanta the day Langston was killed.

The Walker case is expected to reach the jury some time Thursday. Five men have now been given life terms in connection with the Langston death, three men, Ora Whittle, Desha Dutton and John Walker, having been convicted at a court hearing several months ago.

BILL TO REGULATE INTERSTATE BUS LINES INTRODUCED

Washington, December 16.—Federal regulation of interstate bus lines, in a manner similar to that now exercised over railroads, was sought in a bill introduced today by Senator Cummins, Iowa, ranking republican on the interstate commerce committee.

The measure was worked out at several recent conferences of the National Association of State Railway and Utilities Commissioners, and was presented by Senator Cummins at the request of Charles W. Water, of Iowa, chairman of the organization's legislative committee.

YOUNG WOMAN PREACHER SAYS CHURCH IS SLOW

Des Moines, Iowa, December 16.—(AP)—The church is traveling in a hazy while the rest of the world is using high-powered automobiles, and for this reason needs to adjust itself, Miss Hattie Horn, attractive 19-year-old bobbed-haired girl preacher, declared here today.

Miss Horn, who is booming the attendance at the Promise City Christian church where she occupies the pulpit every Sunday, believes young people are thinking out and facing their problems more earnestly and squarely than those of any other generation.

"There is a tendency," she said, "among elders, with their hide-bound traditions, to shove youth and youthful thought aside. It is this conservative attitude toward youth which is largely responsible for the present hysteria about the younger generation."

As to dancing, she does not believe that it is in itself wrong, but she expressed the belief that it has become a menace through over-emphasis.

ITALIANS APPROVE BILL TO RESTRICT LIBERTY OF PRESS

Rome, December 16.—(AP)—The Italian senate today approved the government's bill designed to place restrictions on the liberty of the press. The ballot, which was secret, showed 159 in favor of the bill and 53 against it. This was the highest opposition the government has yet met in the upper house.

Washington, Ark., December 16.—(AP)—Holding citizens at bay for two hours robbers believed to have numbered five men early today blew open the safe in the Bank of Washington and escaped with between $8,000 and $9,000. One of the robbers was wounded as he fled the town.

INHERITANCE TAX RATES APPROVED BY HOUSE

laws, and declared that it was clearly in violation of the constitution. He came to the defense of Florida, whose representatives are opposing it. Florida has no state inheritance tax, and would therefore not gain by the credit.

"The majority," Cox declared, "frankly admit that this is not a revenue measure, but a measure to force uniformity upon the states, and congress would coerce Florida to have an estate tax in line with this uniform policy."

In defending the estate tax, as a form of taxation, Representative Rutherford said: "There has been a campaign of propaganda in my state for some time to abandon the field of inheritance taxes; the argument being made that in order to induce capital to come into the state it was necessary to relieve the capitalists of this burden."

"I cannot subscribe to this line of argument, as I do not believe there is a large percentage of capitalists who desire to be relieved of their fair share of the burden of taxation."

"The estate tax, in my opinion, is one of the forms of taxation that will not only give some relief, but it is the only tax that I know of that cannot be passed on to the consumer. I believe that this form of taxation should never be discontinued by the congress, especially where a fair and just credit is given the taxpayers of the different states."

"If this or any future congress should cease to provide for the estate tax, it would only be a short time before many of the states would abandon the field in a competitive struggle between the respective states to induce capital to come in. No state able taxpayer could consistently object to the minimum under this bill."

BAINBRIDGE COLBY DENIES SEPARATION FROM MRS. COLBY

New York, December 16.—(AP)—

Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state, today denied that he and his wife are separated.

When Mrs. Colby sailed for Europe last night, both she and her husband denied reports that she was going to Paris for the purpose of obtaining a divorce. A member of the family at that time was quoted as saying that the Colbys had, for some months, been living in different parts of the city and had agreed upon an "amicable separation."

CAPPER FATHERS WOMEN'S MEASURES TO CURB DIVORCES

Washington, December 16.—(AP)—Two measures designed to check the mounting number of divorces were introduced today by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, who said they had been drafted by a committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

One called for a constitutional amendment to give the government authority to prescribe uniform marriage and divorce laws, and the other was a bill containing a proposed uniform measure.

The latter would require two weeks' notice before the granting of a marriage license, and fix the minimum age at which they could be obtained at 16 years for girls and 18 years for boys, with parental consent, and at 18 and 21 years, respectively, without such consent.

Marriage of feeble-minded persons, those with incurable diseases, and of persons within the first degree of blood relation would be prohibited.

Judgment Excludes Three Children Gould Had by Second Wife

New York, December 16.—(AP)—A judgment, excluding the three children of the late George J. Gould by his second wife from participating in a trust fund from their father's estate, and ordering its distribution among his seven other children, was entered today in the New York supreme court.

The judgment deprives the three younger children of a share in a fund of approximately $4,000,000, established by Jay Gould, the founder of the family fortune, for the children of George J. Gould, son of the founder.

The children thus excluded are George Sinclair Gould, Jane Sinclair Gould and Guinevere Gould. They were born before their mother, who was Guinevere Sinclair, became the second wife of George J. Gould, but their births were legitimated after the marriage.

If the judgment filed today is allowed to stand their share will go to the seven other children, who are the present Jay Gould, Kingdom Gould, Marjorie Gould Drexel, Lady Decies, formerly Vivien Gould, George Gould, Jr., Edith Gould Wainwright and Gloria Gould Bishop.

If I were Santa Claus

I'd put on an extra sleigh and load it with flashlights! Because there wouldn't be a single person on my list, from six to sixty, who wouldn't be mighty glad to own a good flashlight.

Being Santa Claus, I would know the desires of both young and old. I know they couldn't own anything more useful than a flashlight.

Of course, I'd be sure to give them Eveready flashlights, because my own shop couldn't turn out anything finer.—(adv.)

BRITISH CUT 1926 PROGRAM IN AIR

London, December 16.—(AP)—Sir

Samuel Hoare, head of the air ministry, announced in a speech in the Chelsea town hall tonight that Great Britain will postpone fulfillment of her present air defense program in view of the clearer and more peaceful European ships resulting from the Locarno agreements.

"If other nations follow this example," he said, "all the governments will be enabled to avoid in the years to come a race in armaments far more disastrous than the world has ever endured."

The plan for a home defense force of 32 squadrons remains intact, but the minister said that the normal rise in air costs by 30 per cent during 1926, making expenditures of more than 20,000,000 pounds, as compared with 10,000,000 pounds in 1925, would be curtailed materially by recommendations which he had made to the government, and which he believed justified by the changed situation in Europe.

EPISCOPAL UNION PLANS YULE GIFTS

One thousand Atlanta children will be made glad next Monday when the Atlanta Young People's Service league will give a charity Christmas tree at 3 o'clock at Taft Hall, under the direction of Miss Catherine L. Abbott, service chairman of the union. The service league union is composed of the leagues of 10 Atlanta Episcopal churches, St. Luke's, All Saints, Incarnation, St. Philip's, Epiphany, Church of Our Saviour, St. Timothy, St. John's, Kirkwood, Holy Trinity, St. James, Marietta, Decatur and College Park.

League members have been at work for several months and 500 dolls have been dressed and toys have been bought for several hundred boys. Preceding distribution of gifts, a pageant consisting of a number of Mother Goose rhymes, "The Night Before Christmas" and the manger scene will be enacted.

Lewis Cook is chairman of the committee on collection of children's names. Miss Josephine Reid is chairman of the committee for assortment of presents, candy and fruits; Ned Bullock will have charge of invitations and Gus Constantine is chairman on the committee on decoration of the tree.

Those who will take part in the pageant are, Albert Benedict, Mur-

PIPE SMOKERS PLAN BIRTHDAY PROGRAM

James A. Hollomon, associate editor of The Constitution, will be principal speaker at the third anniversary of founding of grand lodge of the National Order of Pipe Smokers at 7-30 o'clock next Tuesday night in the ballroom of the Henry Grady hotel. The program also includes the annual address of Dr. Horace Grant, president.

Invitations have been sent to the governing board, Judge E. D. Thomas, counselor; Will V. Zimmer, superintendent, and Tom C. Miller, treasurer. Colonel Sam W. Wilks will give an address of welcome to the women who attend. Other prominent members who will take part in the ceremonies are Alderman Claude Ashley, Robert L. Cooney, R. N. Reed, David H. Strauss, Mayor Walter A. Sims, Frank Weldon, Will L. Hancock, W. A. Richardson and J. E. Edwards. The National Order of Pipe Smokers was founded in Atlanta December 22, 1922.

SOLOIST TO FEATURE SYMPHONY CONCERT

Marino Capelli, flute soloist, who has made his home in Atlanta for the past several years, will be one of the principal attractions Sunday afternoon at the fourth civic concert of the Atlanta Symphony orchestra at Loew's Grand theater.

An entertaining program of popular selections has been arranged by the program committee. Large crowds of music lovers have patronized the first three of the season's civic concerts and an even larger crowd is expected Sunday.

Single tickets will be placed on sale Friday and Saturday at Phillips & Crew piano company for the concert and a heavy demand is expected.

BOYKIN TO ADDRESS FIFTH WARD LEAGUE

John A. Boykin, solicitor of the Fulton superior court, will be principal speaker at a meeting tonight of the Fifth Ward Civic League at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of English avenue school.

Changes in the constitution and by-laws as recommended by the committee are to be voted on.

Prominent Atlantans Will Act as Sponsors Of Hayes Appearance

When Roland Hayes, negro tenor, sings in the auditorium Friday night, it will be his first appearance in Georgia since he has established himself as one of the world's great singers. Hayes was born on a farm north of Rome, Ga., of slave parents. His first real success as a singer was in the Boston Symphony hall in November, 1917. Since that time he has sung in most of the large cities of Europe and America, being commanded to sing before the king and queen of England and the queen mother of Spain.

Prominent music lovers of Atlanta will be patrons for Hayes' recital here, and many have reserved boxes for the performance. Among those who will be seen in boxes Friday night are Governor and Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Alston, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Wilmer, Mrs. Cliff C. Hatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips.

Patrons for the concert are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler, Mr. and Mrs. Armond Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lee Crew, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Downman, Dr. and Mrs. Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elsas, Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Haas, Mr. Leonard Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harold, Mrs. Cliff Hatcher, Miss Margaret Hecht, Dr. and Mrs. De Los Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hirsch, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mrs. Samuel M. ## Ralph A. Plate Dies In Syracuse in Auto Accident Tuesday

News of the instant death of Ralph A. Plate, president of the General Realty company of Syracuse, N. Y., in an automobile accident in Syracuse Tuesday night was received in Atlanta Wednesday. Mr. Plate was the son of Mrs. E. Plate, of 100 Juniper street.

It is said that Mr. Plate's automobile skidded on a wet street and overturned on him. He was prominent in lodge circles in Syracuse, being a member of the Masons, Elks and two city clubs.

In addition to his mother he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Valeska De La Fuente and Mrs. John C. Moore, all of Juniper street; and a son, Ralph A. Plate, Jr., of Syracuse. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BOYS' HIGH PLANNING CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Annual Christmas exercises of the Boys' High school will take place at the Auditorium-Armory Friday night at 10 o'clock. The program includes declamations and a debate under auspices of the Alphonse Literary and Debating society, music by the Boys' High school orchestra and a one-act farce by the Dramatic club.

The question for debate is: "Resolved, That the power of pardon should be taken away from the president of the United States and the governors of the several states."

Questions of the several states.

BUSINESS BRISK IN AUTO LICENSES

Business was brisk in the office of Secretary of State S. G. McLenon Wednesday when the 1926 automobile tags were placed on sale for the first time. The new tags are pointed dark red with white numerals. There was a heavy demand for them when the sale opened.

Dr. Royal Miller, in charge of the mail order division, reported sales of more than 500 tags the first day. Charles A. Cook, cashier of the motor vehicle department, reported local sales heavy, but automobile owners applying for small numbers or for the same numbers used during the current year. Mr. Cook said no numbers would be set aside after December.

Under the new law governing the sale of tags each applicant for a license must take an oath that he is the owner of the automobile for which the license is purchased. After making this oath the owner is supplied with a certificate of ownership.

No personal checks will be accepted by the department in payment for the new tags. Only cashiers checks, money orders or cash will be accepted. The 1925 tags are good until March 1, 1926 but the new tags can be used after December 15, this year. This will enable purchasers of new automobiles to use the 1925 tags without having to pay for 1925 tags which can be used only two and one-half months.

LEVY OF $30 VOTED ON BAKING WAGONS

Recommendation that a tax of $30 be assessed on each bakery wagon or vehicle selling wares from house to house, regardless of their number, was voted Wednesday afternoon by the council tax committee. The measure goes to council for approval Monday.

At the last session of council an ordinance was passed providing for an annual license of $15 for each vehicle peddling bakery products from door to door, and a maximum fee of $150 for more than 10 vehicles.

E. V. Bergen, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Grocers' association, told the committee that such a measure was discriminatory in that it would permit a bakery with 1,000 vehicles to operate at the same license cost as a smaller bakery with 10 wagons.

The committee approved a petition from the Gordon Street Baptist church asking that it be allowed to cancel a $1 fee covering cost of improvement of Lucile avenue upon payment of 25 per cent of the assessment.

It was declared in the petition that other churches had been allowed to settle on a similar basis.

A 60 per cent reduction in taxes assessed against the Piedmont Driving club, as was awarded last year, was recommended for this year, following presentation of a petition before the committee.

Training For Posts With Sears-Roebuck Is Given Approval

Indorsement of the plan of the Community Employment service to train students of Atlanta for employment by Sears-Roebuck company at the new Atlanta branch was given Wednesday by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent.

The superintendent said that the many advantages offered by the Opportunity school, the Smith-Hughes classes and other night schools afforded a curriculum sufficient to train men and women for necessary work.

It is estimated that the Atlanta branch of Sears-Roebuck company will employ around 1,500 persons.

M. P. McGrath, secretary of the community employment service, who took the matter up with the board of education Tuesday, stated Wednesday that he had written to personnel officials of Sears-Roebuck asking that they advise him of their requirements for workers in order that special courses along the lines needed may be put in curricula of schools offering business training. He said expense of the work will be shared by the community chest and the department of labor.

HAMMOND AGAIN DENIED RETRIAL BY SUPREME COURT

In a divided opinion, three judges voting for reversal and three to uphold a life sentence imposed by the Missouri supreme court on L. C. Hammond, Columbus white man charged with killing his wife in July, 1921, the supreme court Wednesday, by operation of law, sustained the sentence of the lower court. This was the fourth time Hammond had been tried on this charge, similar convictions being returned in previous trials.

The supreme court twice granted new trials to Hammond and the trial judge granted one new trial. Attorneys for Hammond asserted that Mrs. Hammond killed herself and that Hammond was not guilty of the deed. The evidence of his small son, however, was damaging, the child testifying that his father had fired the shot which killed his mother.

Supreme court justices voting Wednesday for a reversal in the case were Judges Russell, Atkinson and Hill. Those voting in favor of sustaining the sentence of the lower court were Judges Beck, Gilbert and Elmer. In a case where the court is divided the case is affirmed by operation of law.

OFFICERS FIND WHISKY CACHE UNDER RABBITS

Ed Magill, 33, of a Vanira street address, J. T. Kirkland, 34, of East Lake, were lodged in Fulton tower Wednesday on a charge of violating the state prohibition laws after City Prohibition Officers C. E. McCrary and L. J. Brooks and Federal Officer Goodie reported they had discovered five gallons of whisky neatly hidden beneath several baskets of dead rabbits on their truck.

The truck was intercepted at East avenue and Boulevard and it was only after a thorough search that the alleged contraband was discovered. The rabbits were given to the Old Ladies' home and the liquor poured out.

PROGRESS REPORTED IN HOME CAMPAIGN

Much progress in the movement to establish a National Soldiers' home in or near Atlanta was announced Wednesday by Sam C. Crane, secretary of the Southern National soldiers' home committee and member of the state legislative committee for the Georgia branch of the U. S. W. S.

"The people of Atlanta cannot realize what the establishment of such a home will mean to Atlanta, as no such home has been provided for and located south of the Mason and Dixon line," he said. As for means of establishing the home, Mr. Crane said $1,000,000 would not be excessive. A telegram was just received by William Schley Howard, one of the attorneys who are framing the bill to present to congress, from Congressman William D. Upshaw, of the fifth district, indorsing the movement and offering his personal and legislative support. Mr. Crane said means for the home can be raised through the sale and development of millions of acres of government land in the south. "The south will get this home and it will undoubtedly be located in or near Atlanta," Mr. Crane said.

Motorists Flock to Take Advantage of Martin-Nash Winter Trade-In Plan!

One enthusiast calls it the fairest, squarest idea that he has ever heard of.

The Martin-Nash Winter Trade-in Plan is going over big with motorists because, from every standpoint, it works to their advantage.

As one man said, "You have given me just what I need. You have taken my car off my hands for the winter when I use it least. You have given me 60% of its fair value in cash. You have credited me with the balance and will pay me 6% interest on it until spring. My overhead on the car has stopped entirely.

"In the spring the 40% balance due me will be applied to a new car, which will be delivered just when I'll need it and when it will be most pleasant and useful to me. Incidentally, on January 1st my car's trade-in value would decrease considerably. You have valued it at its 1925 worth rather than its 1926 price—a big saving to me.

"I save depreciation, insurance, operating costs and garage rent, which in former years were just as heavy in cold weather when I used the car little as they were in summer when I used it a great deal.

"Yes, sir! The Martin-Nash Winter Trade-in Plan is just what I have been looking for."

You, too, will be enthusiastic over this idea once you learn its complete details. Write or phone for information or stop at our offices (Peachtree and North Avenue) today.

$100 MINIMUM WAGE SCALE GETS APPROVAL

Mayor Sims Wednesday attached his signature of approval to the bill sponsored by Councilman Harry York fixing a minimum wage standard of $100 per month or $4 per working day for all clerical employees or semi-skilled laborers in all city departments.

The paper will affect about 250 employees and will entail an additional expenditure of about $30,000 a year, according to Councilman York.

This was the only salary increase approved by council and the aldermanic board to reach the mayor. Salary raises for policemen and firemen, although passed by the aldermanic board, were held up by notice of reconsideration.

The fourth salary measure, designed to give a flat 15 per cent increase to all officials and employees, making between $1,200 and $3,000 a year, and a flat 10 per cent increase to employees making in excess of $3,000, which was adopted by council, was non-concurred in this week by the aldermanic board.

TEXTBOOK CONTRACTS LEGAL, MA PROCLAIMS

Austin, Texas, December 16.—(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today issued a proclamation declaring legal the adoption of textbook contracts awarded October 12 by the state textbook commission.

These contracts, for six years involve approximately $1,000,000 including the American Book company's contracts worth more than half that amount and which S. M. N. Marra, superintendent of public instruction has refused to recognize.

Attorney General Dan Moody has declared the American Book company contract invalid.

VETERAN CLEARING HOUSE OFFICIAL RETIRED BY BODY

In recognition of his services covering nearly 35 years as secretary and manager of the Atlanta Clearing House association, Darwin G. Jones has been retired by that body with full pay for the remainder of his life, retirement to begin January 1, 1938, it was announced Wednesday. The Clearing House association adopted resolutions providing for this change at its December meeting.

In resolutions tribute was paid to services rendered by Mr. Jones since organization of the Clearing House association in 1891. It was pointed out that Mr. Jones was transferred to the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta as representative of the Atlanta Clearing House association when that bank assumed full clearing house functions.

It also was pointed out in the resolution that Mr. Jones was the first Atlanta citizen to receive the honor of having a life membership of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce bestowed upon him.

A final glimpse of Santa Claus and his helpers—elves and fairies—discussing the records of various children for whom Christmas gifts are being finally packed.

Santa's Magic Sleigh Needs No Shock Absorbers Even on the Roughest Mountain Roads in Pole-land.

A MESSAGE TO EVERY CHILD. Would You Like to Write a Letter to Santa Claus?

Anybody under 15 years of age is permitted to read the articles which The Constitution's special correspondent, Holly Berry, is sending to us from Santa Claus Land. Every day for a week we shall receive one of these wireless messages, describing Holly Berry's visit to Santa Claus.

As our Christmas editor is in constant touch by wireless with Holly Berry, you are invited to send back any message you like to Santa Claus. Write your letter and mail it to the Christmas Editor of The Constitution. Show it to your father or mother first, and if they approve, you may be sure that Santa Claus will enjoy it as much as they do.

But Santa Claus has requested us not to forward to him any letters that have not been first shown to father or mother, or at least uncle or aunt.

BY HOLLY BERRY, Special Correspondent of the Constitution in Eskimoland.

CHAPTER FIVE.
North Poleville, Eskimoland, December 16.—(By wireless.)—The last day of The Constitution's exploring expedition in Santa Claus Land was spent in an excursion to Easter Egg Valley.

"We have just received an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Easter Bunny to call on them at their ranch," announced Santa as soon as we had finished our breakfast.

Again we hitched up our teams, and took plenty of lunch, along, for Santa said it would be a long ride to the south.

We came to a great valley where there was no snow on the ground. The mountains were snow-capped and the nooks were full of hot springs. The grass was green, and Christmas trees grew all around.

Everywhere little rabbits and chicks and tiny ducks were busy gathering little round pebbles, and bigger ones that looked like eggs. We carried these to a big log house, to be made into Easter eggs and cany.

Santa Claus in his magic sleigh, which climbs mountains and crosses valleys high above the raging north wind.

As Santa's party came up to the log house, Mr. Easter Rabbit came hopping out. He was dressed in his best bib and tucker, and greeted us like old friends.

We went into the house where Mrs. Easter Rabbit had set the table. All the little chicks and ducks were waiting for us, chirping and quacking, asking Santa what the boys and girls were to get at Easter time.

Mrs. Easter Rabbit is a very busy person, making Easter eggs out of chocolate and sugar, and writing on them the names Santa tells her. After the Captain had taken all the pictures he wanted, we went home to the castle. There we took more pictures of Donner and Blitzen, Prancer and Dancer, the great reindeer team Santa uses on his Christmas trip. With Christmas less than a week away, the Captain knew how busy Santa Claus was getting ready for it, so we planned to leave the next day.

Santa, however, would not let us go alone. He said the wind and go with us past the cave of the fierce spirit, Layluk—the North Wind.

"Layluk is no friend of mine, and I'm afraid he may harm you if you go alone," said Santa. "Besides, I haven't visited my neighbors the Eskimos for a year, and I want to see how they are getting along with their reindeer."

When we came to the mountain pass where the North Wind lived, he set up such a howling blast that it seemed as though he were trying to blow us back. It seemed that we would have to stay forever in the land of Santa Claus. There seemed no other way out of it or around.

Santa soon thought of a plan, however. "We'll have to go above him, as I always do at Christmas time."

So he loaded us and our precious camera and pictures into his own magic sleigh, and we ascended the mountain, and then rode from crest to crest high above the raging Layluk until we came to the Eskimo country. (Tomorrow: Santa Claus Coming to Atlanta.)

News of the Day From 69th U. S. Congress

Washington, December 16.—(AP)—Wet leaders in congress are considering a proposal for hearings before a joint senate and house committee on various pending proposals for modification of the Volstead act.

Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, who has presented a 275 bill, said today no decision had been reached.

The Edge bill is before the senate judiciary committee and hearings will be held by a subcommittee if Senator Edge requests it.

Roosevelt Memorial. Pending plans for a mammoth memorial fountain and colonnade here in honor of Theodore Roosevelt were attacked in the senate today by Senator King, democrat, Utah, as improper and ill advised.

He said the projected structure to be placed near the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial would amount to singling out Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt as the three greatest Americans.

It would be better, he added, to first make suitable tribute to Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin.

Building Bill. Representative Edick, democrat, Tennessee, introduced today a bill to improve the Federal Building at Columbia, Tenn. An appropriation of $100,000 is asked.

Printing Measure. Representative Edwards, democrat, Georgia, introduced today a bill to prohibit the postoffice department from printing and selling envelopes.

Dare Monument. A monument to Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, was asked in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Warren, democrat, North Carolina. The monument would be situated at Walter Raleigh's fort on Roanoke Island, North Carolina.

MISS LEONA FULLER, POPULAR TEACHER, IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services for Miss Leona E. Fuller, 21, daughter of the Rev. J. H. Fuller, pastor of Buckhead Baptist church, who died at a private hospital Tuesday, were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from Buckhead Baptist church. The Rev. R. L. Motley, of Florence, Ala., officiated and interment was in Sardis, Ga., cemetery.

Miss Fuller was well known in Atlanta, although she had lived here only one year. She was a teacher in the R. L. Hope school and took a prominent part in church work. She was born in Maryville, Tenn., moving to Atlanta about a year ago. She was a graduate of the State Normal school of Alabama.

She is survived by her parents; one sister, Miss Beulah Fuller, and four brothers, Earle, Paul and J. H. Fuller, Jr., all of Atlanta, and Floyd Fuller, of Parris Island, S. C.

STUDENT BODIES IN FOUR SCHOOLS HAVE FINE TEETH

Every pupil in every class in four Atlanta public schools were declared Wednesday to have registered 100 per cent perfect teeth in examinations made since the opening of the school term last September.

Schools registering a perfect record were Davis, Ira, Ormewood and Tenth streets.

It is a rule of the board of education that a school upon registering 100 per cent perfect teeth shall be given a holiday.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

GERM-FREE MILK WILL BE ASSURED IN DRASTIC RULES

All persons connected with dairies or milk plants who handle milk in any manner in serving Atlanta must have on file in the food and dairy division of the city health department, by February 1, certificates showing them to be free of typhoid, tuberculosis or any disease capable of being spread through milk supplies, according to announcement Wednesday by H. D. Lucas, chief of the food and dairy division of the department.

Mr. Lucas said the laboratory will test free of charge all milk samples rendered for typhoid or tuberculosis.

These must be submitted in sterilized containers available at the city laboratory, he said.

Furthermore, he declared, a physical examination must be made of all employees and a written report submitted.

This may be done by the personal physician of the employee or by city physicians at city hall, Mr. Lucas announced.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities in the world. It is a medicine as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you to expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—(adv.)

VETERAN NEWSPAPER MAN DIES IN GOTHAM

Charles Leidy, 65, head proofreader on The Constitution for three years until one year ago, and one of the last of the "old school printers," died Wednesday in a New York hospital, according to advices received from his son, Thomas H. Leidy, New York newspaperman.

The elder Mr. Leidy was seized with paralysis several months ago while on The Constitution and was taken to New York by his son. He never recovered, and, although ill, kept up some of his work until a short time ago.

At one time or another during his fifty or more years in printing-publishing work, Mr. Leidy worked on every newspaper of importance east of the Mississippi river. He was an authority on newspaper style and compilation, and was one of the best known writers on industrial topics in the south.

Mr. Leidy was a strong champion of organized labor. He founded the Tampa, Fla., Citizen, and many years ago published a paper in Tennessee, through which he vigorously supported Thomas A. Watson for president on the Populist ticket.

He was a personal friend of the late Congressman Claude L. Engle, of Florida, and assisted in the publication of Mr. Engle's newspapers in Jacksonville and Tallahassee, Fla. During the past year, he contributed regularly a column in The Journal of Labor, of Atlanta.

Mr. Leidy is survived by four sons and five daughters. His wife died more than a year ago. He was a native of Rochester, Minn. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

There are still more than a dozen widows of the war of 1812 on the pension rolls of the United States.

BINGHAM AIR BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, December 16.—(AP)—Conclusions reached by the president's air board came to early fruition in the senate today when it passed, without a record vote, a bill by Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, designed to effect the board's findings with respect to commercial aviation.

Senator Bingham was a member of the board and his bill was the first passed at the present session of the senate. It would authorize appointment of an additional assistant secretary of commerce, charged with general supervision of the government's activities in connection with commercial aviation.

The measure also would provide for licensing of civilian pilots, inspection of commercial airports, weather bureau service for airplanes, establishment of commercial air routes lighted under direction of the light house service, and installation of radio finding devices at frequent intervals along the approved traffic lanes. Only a few minor amendments were made by the senate in action on the bill.

FULTON HIGH STUDENTS STAGE ANNUAL FEATURE

Presenting a Roman wedding ceremony in Latin, the Latin class of Fulton High school Wednesday night won first honors for one of the most original stunts in the annual student program of the school in the institution's auditorium.

Miss Frances Jackson took the part of the bride, while Virgil E. Moore, Jr., took the role of the groom. Other members of the class were assigned roles in the ceremony. Other winners in various events included Dora Burton and Miss Evelyn Ewing.

Sergeant R. L. Campbell, army instructor at the school, was presented with a smoking cabinet by the R. O. T. C. squad.

Many interesting stunts were enjoyed by an audience of over 1,000 persons. Frank Pitts offered trumpet solos, Class C-1 gave "A Dream of Fair Women" (with apologies to Tennyson), Hermina Baum was heard in a violin solo, Miss Pauline Baker, of the faculty, gave a reading, the Georgia Railway and Power company quartet sang, Miss Cora Kay Hutchins gave several selections, Class B-1 presented "A Plantation Scene," Herbert Chapman entertained with Hawaiian music, the Spanish class presented a skit, "In Old Madrid," and Class B-5 offered "The Pigmy Minstrel." The Girl Reserves gave a parol drill.

PIONEER ATLANTA INSURANCE AGENT SUCCUMBS HERE

Walter Raleigh Dale, 79, a native of New York city and retired insurance agent, died Wednesday afternoon at the home, 60 East Cain street, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Dale lived in England for a while in his youth, but had resided in Atlanta for the past fifty years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dora Dale.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon from Blanchard Brothers' funeral chapel, and the Rev. Charles Daniels, pastor of First Baptist church, will officiate. Interment will be in Hollywood cemetery.

MAN STILL LIVING WHOM CIRCLE SAW SLASHED TO BRAIN

Raleigh, N. C., December 16.—(AP)—Tonight, more than 48 hours after a circular saw had slashed its way through his skull and into his brain, Nathaniel Pierce, 24, continued to hold on to life, and physicians at the local hospital, where he lies, say he has a "50-50 chance" for recovery.

The young man was operating a gasoline saw near here on Monday when he accidentally fell forward on the moving saw. A gash eight inches long was sawed through his skull between his "hathand" and his eyes.

Physician said, and the brain was laid bare.

Rushed to Raleigh, he was placed immediately upon the operating table for an operation which local physicians now believe may result in his recovery.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN TO EXTEND WORK TO BOYS ON FARM

Washington, December 16.—(AP)—National leaders of the Boy Scout organization conferred today with Secretary Jardine and leaders of the extension work of the department of agriculture on a proposal to extend the movement on a large scale to farm boys.

The department of officials agreed to cooperate through their own agencies and the boys clubs in rural areas they have fostered. The work will be done through the extension of the Lone Scout movement, a variation of the Boy Scout movement, under which boys who cannot meet with a scoutmaster may get the Scout

GREENLAND TO GIVE RECITAL HERE SUNDAY

Cantor D. Greenland, graduate of the London Conservatory of Music and well-known lyric tenor, will be heard in concert at 7 o'clock Sunday night by the Congregation of Abnerth Achin, Washington street and Woodward avenue.

Greenland will be assisted by Miss Ethel Adam, Mrs. Ralph Frapart and Herbert Frapart, and will be accompanied at the piano by Miss Ansel Oshman.

NEGRO IS CONVICTED OF ASSAULT ATTEMPT

Decatur, Ga., December 16.—(Special)—Will Hallman, a negro ex-soldier, was convicted in Decatur superior court today of attempted criminal assault upon one of the nurses in U. S. hospital, No. 48, on Peachtree road, and was sentenced from 10 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

It appeared from the testimony that the crime was committed last summer. The defendant was positively identified by the nurse as a former patient whom she had served as a nurse for some months in the negro ward in the basement of the hospital. A pronounced sentence, Judge Hutcherson said: "I do not want to appear to criticize any department of our great government, but I do wish that the colored patients could be sent to the government hospital for colored people at Tuskegee, Ala. I understand there is a very large and well-appointed institution there, one of the finest in the country, where colored patients can receive the best attention, and be attended by nurses of their own race."

FASHION'S parade of coats! Here, on the fourth floor of Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—continuing today, by popular demand. All kinds of beautiful, rich, fur-trimmed coats. Coats for the young miss who wishes swagger lines — coats for the more matronly figure, requiring straight, tailored effects — coats that wrap luxuriously around one! Your coat is here.

There are four price groups—and in each one there are many smart styles. Each price represents a careful grouping of the wonderful coats we had in stock, marked at our usual low-as-the-lowest prices, now selling at this practically give-away clearance price! The sale represents an opportunity which is both unusual and truly thrilling! Unusual, because it comes before Christmas instead of after, as is customary. Thrilling because of the quality of the coats offered at such bargain prices!

Observe that in each group the colors, furs and fabrics, are the most wanted of the winter styles. Vivid reds, rich blues, soft tans and deep browns—all the high colors of the season's vogue. And the furs! Collars that roll high under one's chin and feel so soft and warm to nestle one's cheek against on a windy day! Deep cuffs, smartly tight fitting, to keep out the cold. And sometimes borders down the front or around the flared bottom—in a soft, graceful swirl!

"Faster Transportation Needed"

---says Arthur L. Brooke

ARTHUR L. BROOKE,

President Southeastern Fair Association, former president Kiwanis Club, active leader in civic progress.

"BETTER TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

is necessary for a greater Atlanta.

"To put any large additional number of street cars on the streets would make downtown Atlanta virtually impassable for any traffic. It is hard enough to get through the center of town as it is.

"BETTER service, then, has come to mean FASTER service.

"The street railway company is asking permission to speed up its cars and schedules through eliminating unnecessary stops. The change should be made, at least for a fair trial, in the interests of all Atlanta.

(Signed) "ARTHUR L. BROOKE."

(Published in the interest of BETTER STREET CAR SERVICE for Atlanta by the Georgia Railway & Power Co.)

LOCAL STORE TO CASH CHECKS FOR TEACHERS

Volunteering its services to teachers of Atlanta, Davison-Paxon-Stokes company, affiliated with R. H. Macy and company, of New York, has offered to cash predated checks of teachers so that the salaries may be available for Christmas shopping. Predated teachers' salary checks will be cashed on any purchase of any amount in the Davison-Paxon-Stokes store, and the balance turned over to the teacher. It was stated.

The teachers are to be given checks before Christmas for their salaries as of the first of the year, and the Davison-Paxon-Stokes offer is made so that the teachers will not have to pay a discount to have their predated checks cashed.

Enormous stocks of Christmas gifts in an infinite variety are on display at Davison-Paxon-Stokes company, being arranged in a most inviting manner.

ACQUIRING BRAIN SIMPLE PROCESS, SAYS PROFESSOR

Chicago, December 16.—Acquiring brains is merely a biological process, common in the lower animals, Professor C. M. Child, zoologist, told an audience of ambitious students at Chicago University Tuesday evening.

"Many individuals—in the lower animal world, of course—start life with no brain at all," said the professor. "By the time they are 10 or 12 years old they often have developed brains of relatively great proportions."

OFFICIAL PLANS IMMEDIATE START ON OPERA STADIUM

Construction work on the new light opera stadium to be erected in Piedmont park will begin as soon as the architects finish their plans, according to announcement Wednesday by Charles Howard Candler, president of the Atlanta Municipal Light Opera company.

All obstacles to construction work were cleared away Tuesday when Mayor Walter A. Sims signed the ordinance passed by council and approved by the aldermanic board appropriating $300,000 for this purpose. The association is to advance the money needed for construction to the city, and this sum is to be repaid in three annual installments of $100,000 each.

It is planned by a committee to present the light opera season next summer. The association is now at work on its plans for engaging an opera company for next season.

500 Atlantans To Present Mammoth Christmas Pageant

One of the scenes from "The Light of the World" Christmas pageant, to be staged at the Auditorium Sunday, December 27.

More than 500 people will take part in the presentation of "The Light of the World," the big Christmas pageant which will be offered at the City Auditorium Sunday afternoon, December 27, under joint auspices of the city of Atlanta and Fulton county.

It is planned by a committee to present the pageant on Sunday, December 27, and to give a second performance the following Tuesday, December 28.

WOMAN HURT IN CRASH AS TRUCK HITS AUTO

Mrs. Lucile Hart, an employee of the Golden Eagle company, of 734 Marietta street, was injured Wednesday afternoon when the car in which she was riding from work was struck by a heavy truck at Marietta street and Pondera avenue. A case of reckless driving was made against Will Brittain, negro, of 188 Pulliam street, driver of the truck.

Mrs. Hart was in a car driven by John McMassey. She received incalculable about the head and severe bruises. Two other occupants of the car escaped injuries.

After striking the car in which Mrs. Hart was riding, and turning it completely around, Brittain's truck swerved and collided with a parked automobile belonging to H. Meador, of 80 Jett street. Wesley Smith, of 300 Tenth street, told Patrolman C. P. Whaley and H. D. Lawson that Brittain was speeding, and narrowly missed striking him shortly before striking the automobile driven by McMassey.

MARYLAND SCHOOLS PRAISED BY LAND

The state of Maryland, through the use of equalization, supervision and county unit system of operating its common schools, is getting wonderful results, which have given that state the best school system in the south and one of the best in the United States, according to Fort E. Land, state superintendent of schools, who has returned to Atlanta after inspecting Maryland schools.

Superintendent Land attended a conference of school superintendents of the south, held at Baltimore under auspices of the general education board. The visiting superintendents were taken on an inspection trip which included visits to rural schools, where they were able to see the new system in operation.

The success of the Maryland system is due primarily to expert supervision, state equalization of school money and establishment of the county unit system, according to Mr. Land.

NEGRO ACCOMPLICE OF DEAD DUELIST GIVEN GANG TERM

Luther Pope, negro, alleged accomplice of Willie Lewis "Black Gal" Kelly, who was killed December 7 in a pistol duel with Fulton County Policeman Willard A. Vinson, Wednesday was sentenced to serve 18 months on the chain gang by Judge G. H. Howard of Fulton superior court.

Pope was charged with assault with intent to murder, pointing a pistol at another and violation of the state law against shooting a pistol within 50 yards of a public highway between dark and daybreak. The first charge was not pressed and Pope was sentenced to serve nine months on each of the two last indictments.

Kelly was killed after he whipped out a pistol and fired at Officer Vinson, seriously wounding him. The policeman returned the fire with such accuracy that Kelly died before he could be taken to a hospital.

The gun battle occurred at Rockdale Park, just off Johnson road in a section known as Dooletown. A group of negroes were holding a dance and Kelly and Pope are said to have gathered together a crowd of negroes to go down and break up the affair. Certain of the merry-makers were frightened when Kelly's gang appeared and police were called. Vinson and his partner, Officer Dickerson, answered the summons.

They attempted to disperse the trouble makers when Pope is alleged to have handed a pistol to Kelly, who opened fire on the officer. Vinson was wounded, and he in turn shot Kelly to death.

Officer Vinson is now at his home convalescing from his wounds.

1,000 COAL CARS, TO COST $1,800,000 ORDERED BY L.&N.

Louisville, Ky., December 16.—(AP) An order for 1,000 all steel, drop bottom coal cars of the gondola type was placed by the Louisville and Nashville railroad today with the Pressed Steel Car company, Pittsburgh. The cost will be $1,800,000 and delivery is to be made in March and April of next year. It was announced at the office of the president of the road here.

The expense brings the total for new equipment, which includes passenger and freight cars and locomotives ordered by the road within the last three months to $3,700,000, the announcement said.

J.O.U.A.M. SPONSORS BIG INDOOR CIRCUS EARLY IN FEBRUARY

Atlanta will have its "circus week" the entire week of February 1 in a mammoth indoor circus to be held under auspices of the Atlanta Junior Order of United American Mechanics at the Auditorium Armory.

Contracts have been signed with the A. V. Kemp Circus company to appear during the week, giving afternoon and night performances. The Auditorium was selected for the circus, as it is the only building of sufficient size to house the aggregation convenient to the heart of the city, it is said.

Funds derived from the circus will be devoted to the hospital fund of the organization. Arrangement will be made so that school children will be able to see the circus and afternoon performances will be held especially for the children.

Many features of the saw-dust ring will be seen in action during the week, most of them famed far and wide. There will be the famous Walton troupe of bareback riders, clowns, acrobats, Indians, educated monkeys and goats, ponies and other things of interest to circus-goers.

Success of Arms Conferences Dependent Largely Upon U.S., French Statesman Declares

Land, Sea and Air Armament Must Be Considered Jointly, He Tells American Correspondent

Geneva, December 16.—The success of international disarmament depends in great measure on whether the United States collaborates. M. Paul-Boncour declared tonight to the Associated Press correspondent, when asked his opinion regarding the prospects of disarmament.

by the league council, and he expressed tonight extreme gratification that even German newspapers praised this program as the first positive plan elaborated as a basis for disarmament negotiations.

"The fact that we have fixed a definite program on such a complicated and perplexing subject," he said, "is the first guarantee of our success."

U. S. Participation Indispensable. M. Paul-Boncour speaks with authority. He is a member of the League of Nations disarmament council, replaces M. Briand of the main council of the league, and is president of the French council for the study of national defense. Developing his declaration concerning the United States, he believed that the participation of the United States was indispensable.

"England," he went on, "for reasons which are quite understandable, is not disposed to treat naval disarmament in the absence of America. Also, France cannot discuss land armaments without the same time problems touching naval and air armaments are not considered, because naval and aerial questions are closely linked with the land problems of the countries like France, which are simultaneously continental and maritime, and cannot admit dissociation of the two questions as easily as England, whose defense rests particularly on a powerful fleet."

Position of France. "In the case of France, a big proportion of our land forces is stationed, even recruited, in north Africa; therefore, the possibility of France reducing her armaments in France proper depends mainly on the security of French naval communications in the Mediterranean."

He questioned whether naval powers like Great Britain and the United States could themselves reasonably undertake to discuss the study of aerial armaments, when every day it was more and more evident that aircraft was becoming a more important element in the actual strength of navies. Any attempt, therefore, to study land disarmament, separately from naval disarmament, and naval disarmament from air, seemed impossible.

"France cannot deal with these three problems separately at different conferences," he said. "If England refuses to discuss naval disarmament in the absence of the United States, then the success of the great undertaking of disarmament almost entirely at the present moment depends on the American attitude."

TAYLOR Elected AT LUTHERSVILLE

Luthersville, Ga., December 16.—(AP)—Funeral services for Dr. James W. Taylor, 62, oldest Mason in Georgia, will be held at his home here Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and interment will follow in the cemetery here.

Dr. Taylor was past grand master of Georgia Masons, past general high priest of the United States, Royal Arch Masons and past grand high priest Georgia chapter Masons. He was one of the best known members of the craft in this state.

On account of feeble health, Dr. Taylor missed attending the grand lodge session last October for the first in 65 years. Up to that time he had attended 65 consecutive grand lodge sessions. During the war between the states, he received a special furlough from General Robert E. Lee to attend the Masonic meeting in Mason.

Dr. Taylor was a banker at Luthersville but in his earlier life he practiced the medical profession. He was born at Lexington, S. C., in 1853, and joined the Masonic fraternity in October, 1884. He was general grand high priest of the United States in 1900-03, and was grand high priest of Georgia in 1890-93 and was grand master of the Georgia craft for one year.

Hugh W. Taylor, Outhbert, Ga., is a grandson and a member of the grand lodge of the United States. Service will be conducted by officers of the grand lodge, headed by Grand Master W. S. Richardson, of Atlanta.

MAON MASONRY TO ATTEND RITES.
Mason, Ga., December 16.—(AP)—Many prominent members of the Masonic fraternity of Georgia in this section will attend the funeral of Dr. James W. Taylor at Luthersville, tomorrow afternoon. In the party that will go from here are F. O. Miller, of Valley, B. C. Gentry, of Irvingville; Joe P. Moore and Sid Jones, of Milledgeville; Rev. John E. Summer, superintendent of the Masonic home; W. L. Collier, of Columbus; E. A. McHan, grand secretary of Royal Arch Masons, and Frank F. Baker, grand secretary of the grand lodge.

TWO ARE ARRESTED
IN PLOT UPON LIFE OF STRESEMAN
Berlin, December 16.—(AP)—A plot against the life of Gustav Stresemann, the foreign minister, has been unearthed. The police have arrested two German fascists, named Kaldorf and Lorenz, who will be charged with plotting the assassination of the minister. They are alleged to have perfected elaborate plans to escape, by the aid of disguises, motor cars and an airplane.

Kaldorf and Lorenz sought an accomplice in a Munich attorney. They believed him to be in sympathy with their plan, but he led them into a police trap. The examining judge expressed the belief that the plot was seriously premeditated.

The foreign office minimizes the seriousness of the plot, designating it as a brainstorm of irresponsible youths, whose imagination is inflamed by attacks on the foreign minister in fascist and other reactionary organs, since his initiation of a peace policy which culminated in the ratification of the Locarno pact.

"Flying Yank" Ready for Test SEILER PITS LEAP AGAINST WILLS SAINT CLAIR Against Auto in 76-Mile Race

John J. Seiler, the "Flying Yank," will leave today for Athens, where at 10 o'clock Friday night he will begin the most extraordinary long distance race ever staged in the southeast when he pits the swiftness of his legs against the mechanical perfection and strength, speed and endurance staged under the auspices of The Constitution. Seiler and the car will run all night and will arrive in Athens about noon Saturday, finishing in front of Loew's Grand theater.

Friday's race is the longest yet attempted in Georgia. Seiler will be in competition with the Wills Saint Claire automobile, which will be locked in high gear with the gear levers removed. The machine will be limited to a maximum speed of six miles an hour, however.

Both the runner and the car will undergo a grueling experience. Seiler exerting every energy to out-distance the car, while the machine will be placed at a distinct disadvantage in being forced to negotiate the steep hills and coast down descents alike at a speed of six miles. If the wizard track star beats the car he will be for the first time in his career, for it is announced that the car will do its best to keep its pace up to the limit.

Seiler's Hard Training. A jog Wednesday in the rain took off another pound of flesh and placed him in fine form for the race. Although he risks taking cold by thus reducing his food, Seiler declared that an extra pound would make a great difference in his time for a long run and that he could not afford to jeopardize his chances by indulging in a single ounce of surplus flesh.

Diets prepared by Vaughan's cafeteria have assisted in the training. Seiler declared that an extra pound would make a great difference in his time for a long run and that he could not afford to jeopardize his chances by indulging in a single ounce of surplus flesh.

South Georgia Power Company Will Absorb
Two Other Utilities
Authority to take over power plants of the Georgia and Alabama Power company, of Albany, and the American Light company, of America, has been granted the South Georgia Power company by the state public utility commission. The South Georgia Power company was authorized to issue $50,000 shares of stock at $25 a share, to issue $424,000 in five-year notes, and to assume $700,500 in bonds of the Georgia and Alabama Power company and $250,000 in bonds of the American Light company.

The commission also granted the Georgia Railway and Power company authority to issue $250,000 in five-year notes, to issue $424,000 in five-year notes, and to assume $700,500 in bonds of the Georgia and Alabama Power company and $250,000 in bonds of the American Light company.

MARIST TO DISMISS
TUESDAY FOR XMAS
Students of Marist college will be dismissed for the Christmas holidays on December 22, according to the announcement Tuesday of the Rev. D. S. Rankin, principal of the institution.

Key West, Fla., December 16.—(AP) All hopes for the seven men aboard the fishing schooner Arcadia, missing from Key West for the past five days, were abandoned by families of the Key West members of the schooner tonight. There were for Key Westers aboard the schooner.

Coast guard headquarters have not heard from the cutter 233, sent from port here yesterday to search for the missing vessel. Another cutter will be dispatched by Captain John Berry in an effort to find the little smack.

COLLEGES AT ATHENS
TO CLOSE THIS WEEK
Athens, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—Athens' three colleges, the university, State Normal school and Cobb College, close this week for the Christmas holidays. The university doesn't close until December 22, but many of the students who finish their examinations will leave for their homes.

All the institutions will resume their spring term work the first week in January.

S. O. S.—P. D. Q.—CALL
FLUNG INTO SPACE
WHEN BAG IS LOST
S. O. S. calls and other emergency signals were thrown out Wednesday by the highway department of The Constitution following the disappearance of a little black brief case containing duplicate papers of business transactions.

"We absolutely need those papers," the highway department S. O. S. calls rang out and promptly the business department of The Constitution authorized a reward for the return of the papers p. d. q., no questions asked, and plenty of thanks to the finder in addition to the monetary consideration.

"I'll buy somebody a nice Christmas present if they return that black bag and its contents or even the contents without the bag," an official of The Constitution's highway department announced. The bag contains no "sweet nothings" but simply business papers of value to no one other than the paper's highway organization.

SNAPPY WEATHER
FOR CHRISTMAS
NOW PROMISED
Real weather for Christmas shopping, fair skies with low temperature that make the blood tingle. In the menu for shoppers for the next few days, according to A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist of the United States weather bureau here. A let-up in the rainy weather which has been experienced over the state since Sunday is forecast.

The Washington bureau forecast for the state at large was for cloudy weather today, with fair skies Friday.

The cold wave which has been sweeping over the northwest is due to strike Atlanta and the state early this morning, but the cold will not be so severe as had been expected, Mr. Scott said. The temperature probably will not reach the freezing point, he continued.

A continual drop in the thermometer throughout Wednesday indicated that the temperature will reach 35 degrees by this morning, Mr. Scott said. The highest temperature recorded Wednesday was 48 at 7 o'clock in the morning. By noon it had dropped to 45, and at 4 o'clock it was three degrees lower.

Although there will be two or three of its kind in America where the temperature will be below freezing at Christmas weather. Rainfall Wednesday was .30 inch.

TECHNICAL SUBJECTS
AT TRAFFIC MEET
Savannah, Ga., December 16.—With a morning session beginning at 10 o'clock today the Southeastern Passenger Association discussed many matters of importance regarding passenger traffic over the southeastern district. The meeting adjourned for luncheon and there was no afternoon session, as originally planned.

Members of the association were driven over the city and county to points of interest and were extended numerous courtesies. W. H. Howard, president, was chairman of the meeting. Business will be resumed in the morning and will be completed tomorrow. Only purely technical subjects are up for discussion. There are about 30 members in attendance.

CONVICT CONTROL.

According to Brunswick dispatches from The Constitution's staff correspondent, Mr. Jones, the special investigating committee of the assembly, will recommend complete control of convict camps by the state, thus abolishing the present checker-board, crazy-quilt system of having county camps without proper uniformity methods, made compulsory by law.

That is a good conclusion. It will stabilize the control, the rules of discipline, the penalties for infractions, the humane care of the sick, and by conserving strength and demeanor along systematic lines, add increasingly to the man-power capacity of each camp. It is, after all, a matter of economies. The conservation of man-power is just as much an economic problem as the stopping of waste, or the conservation of the natural resources.

It is unthinkable in this connection to find in the same dispatch that the committee will recommend "restoration of the lash."

If the state is to assume control of all convicts, and maintain all camps under one code of rules, it is folly to say a standardized schedule of humane but effective penalties can not also be provided without resorting again to whipping, or other corporal punishment.

No law, however rigid in its restrictions, can prevent the privilege of the strap from being ruthlessly and inhumanly abused. No provisions around such a law can justify it in public opinion. The strap on the naked back is a relic of barbarism, and its restoration, after having taken the advanced step of abolition, would mean a set-back for Georgia, in popular opinion, that it would not live over in a generation.

It is unnecessary. Because a few brutal wardens have resorted to methods of punishment more revolting than the strap does not justify the strap. In a great majority of the county camps, even with a standardized code for their control and regulation—as is now proposed—humane wardens have found humane methods of punishment without the strap. In all such cases the morale has been kept high, and the working efficiency of the convicts maintained. In such camps the best of service is the result of humane treatment, cleanliness, sanitation, health, etc.

It is a gross fallacy to suppose that a convict, because he has violated a law, must be brutally treated in order to make him pay his debt to society, or to make him more useful to the state.

The confinement, the disgrace, the surrender of liberty, all contribute the adjustments to society. The warden who administers brutality deserves to be in the convict's place.

The people of Georgia will never consent to the legalization of the lash again, and its agitation by so representative a group as a legislative committee can serve no other than ill purposes.

On the other hand, the people will heartily support rigid state control of the convict camps, and a uniform system of regulations, including privileges, etc., that will maintain an efficient morale, good order, strength conservation, and at the same time measure four-square to the common laws of humanity.

Congress is daring Dawes to tackle it again. It's mighty cold weather to want the far to fly.

There may be Christmas presents that will not look the worse for coming out of cold storage.

Certainly there is need of the congressional directory for, though they're all "on the way," some of them dunno where they're going.

Florida real estate promoters may now advertise the "best watered land in the country."

DR. JAMES W. TAYLOR.

In the death of Dr. James W. Taylor, of Luthersville, Ga., the state loses a valuable citizen, judged by all the standards of real worth and accomplishment.

Though he had passed the 91st milestone of his long life journey, he held the same values and views of life to the end that had marked his entire career.

He gave his services as surgeon to the Confederacy when he was less than 30 years of age and fought the battle of science and skill for wounded soldiers for the entire four years. He was then a distinguished Mason and was so recognized by General Robert E. Lee, who granted him a furlough from the field to attend a meeting of the Grand Lodge of Georgia.

For sixty years he attended every meeting of the Grand Lodge, which he served as grand master for several terms.

He had perhaps the most brilliant record in the annals of Masonry. He took both the York and Scottish rite degrees to the highest and entered the Shrine early in the history of that playground rank beyond the ordinary rituals. He was general high priest of the Royal Arch Masons of the United States, and really ranked as the titular head of that body. King Edward VII, of England, held a similar rank in the British Empire, and President Huerta, of Mexico took the same rank in his land. Both of these world figures conferred with Dr. Taylor upon questions of Masonic law and usages.

His work in the consistory of Scottish rite Masons shows especially in his devotion to the Masonic orphanage at Macon. This he helped to found and he followed it with his personal endeavors to the very last, as trustee and a busy factor in its maintenance and progress.

He was one of the trustees of Georgia School for the Deaf at Cave Spring for 33 years and never missed a regular meeting but one, which was occasioned by the funeral of one of his grandsons on the same date. Not merely did he attend the meetings but his voice was heard and respected by the board in the advocacy of improvements and better facilities for the care and education of deaf children.

These things were accomplished in the midst of a busy practitioner's life when his visits meant so much for the healing of the sick and the poor who never called upon him in vain.

Dr. Taylor's influence will long be felt in the lines of his activities by those who are to succeed him and who will find inspiration in the high ideals he held and all the practical work that he did to uphold them.

Dr. Taylor served several terms in both branches of the Georgia assembly from Meriwether county. As in other activities he was an outstanding figure, always constructive, always vigorous, always safe.

I CAN—I WILL.
Few of us ever dare the outskirts of our possibilities.

An average achievement is so much easier, and besides with larger achievements, must come those larger responsibilities, problems, and acute periods
when one decision may mean the loss of all.

By only the daring deserve
heaven!

And what I mean by "daring" is for a man to take himself in hand and enter into all of life. He who can say and express every inch of all that he is. Who else is capable of saying, as he hears, the sunset of his life.

There are those who forge events.
There are those who from nothing
come something—who see in dreams and in deeds. Men with two full eyes—one saying "I can," the other saying "I will."

These are the rare men of all time,
the Columbuses, the Pearys, the
Fords, the Edisons, the Flaglers, the Rhodeses, the Harrisons, and—well, all the builders!

These are the men who receive the report that it cannot be done, but who reply: "Then go ahead and do it!"

Too many never get over the first hurdle to success, which is: "You can't do it because you have never done it before."

The "I can—I will" man smiles at that hurdle, and with hop, skip and a jump, goes over it. Why not?
Hitch to these twins: "I can—I will." You won't need any other partners.

Deliberate Violations
By Automobile Drivers
Of the Traffic Lights

Editor Constitution: While waiting for a car at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets Tuesday evening around 6 o'clock I saw the drivers of three automobiles deliberately disobey the signals and drive headlong into the columns of pedestrians who had the right of way.

Two of the cars were driven by women, one going north, and the other south. Pedestrians who were in the intersection by right had to jump for their lives, and one man came within a hair's breath almost of being run over by one of the cars.

An average achievement is so much easier, and besides with larger achievements, must come those larger responsibilities, problems, and acute periods
when one decision may mean the loss
of all.

By only the daring deserve
heaven!

And what I mean by "daring" is for a man to take himself in hand and enter into all of life. He who can say and express every inch of all that he is. Who else is capable of saying, as he hears, the sunset of his life.

There are those who forge events.
There are those who from nothing
come something—who see in dreams
and in deeds. Men with two full eyes—one saying "I can," the other
saying "I will."

These are the rare men of all time,
the Columbuses, the Pearys, the
Fords, the Edisons, the Flaglers, the Rhodeses, the Harrisons, and—well, all
the builders!

These are the men who receive the report that it cannot be done, but who
reply: "Then go ahead and do it!"

Too many never get over the first
hurdle to success, which is: "You can't do it because you have never done it before."

The "I can—I will" man smiles at that hurdle, and with hop, skip and
a jump, goes over it. Why not?
Hitch to these twins: "I can—I will." You won't need any other partners.

Deliberate Violations
By Automobile Drivers
Of the Traffic Lights

Editor Constitution: While waiting for a car at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets Tuesday evening
around 6 o'clock I saw the drivers of three automobiles deliberately dis-
obey the signals and drive headlong into the columns of pedestrians who had the right of way.

Two of the cars were driven by women, one going north, and the other south. Pedestrians who were in the intersection by right had to jump for their lives, and one man came within a hair's breath almost of being run over by one of the cars.

This kind of law violation is to be kept up the traffic toll will be a severe one during the holiday congestion.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

My Story of Atlanta
BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

New York, December 16.—On 22d street below Third avenue there is a tiny shop, a mere hole in the wall, where Anatole Guzel, master wig-maker, has carried on his trade for the past forty years. The neighborhood is not what may be called exclusive, but you can find any number of shiny limousines waiting at the curb here any day. For only to Master Guzel will the wealthy dowagers of New York's smart set entrust the task of making their toupes. His suggestions as to color, texture and make-up are invariably followed. For he has taste and he is an artist. Hasn't he got a sign up saying: "Wig-maker to the King and to the Emperor?"

When I asked him which king he had the honor to serve he froze me with a withering glance of scorn. Such a tactless question.

Wig-making is not an ordinary trade. Like the priest and the doctor, the wig-maker has professional secrets which are sacred, and which he will not divulge.

But why a man, who has among his customers the wealthiest women—and men—in New York and who is often consulted by theatrical producers should have stayed in the same little shop for forty years is beyond me. He may figure that the location and the atmosphere are in a large measure responsible for his success and that, had he gone to Broadway, he would have lost since he has perished through competition. As it is he is unobtrusive and out of the way. Something that his customers prefer. For after all you don't advertise it when you are going to get measured for a transformation.

When I stepped into the Club Camo the other night, they were just about going to film the say crowd that whirled and cavorted about the floor. Without a word of warning six huge arched lights dashed and dazzled everyone suddenly with a harsh, merciless steel-white-blue light.

Every woman at once made a grab for her powder puff and got busy.

After my eyes became accustomed to the intense glare I began to realize that a cruel piece of business was being pulled off here. What seemed a delicate tissue of color a moment before was suddenly revealed as an in-artistic slab of red. Noses seemed patchy and crusty with powder, lips were grotesque smears of scarlet.

Nor did the men come out any better. Foreheads were shiny and greasy. Shaven lips were covered with beads of perspiration that looked like huge rain drops.

I began to realize how much New York owes in romance and glamor to the softly tempered, subdued lights of its night clubs. I am afraid there were some terrible disappointments that moment and some cruel disillusionments.

Some women did not face the music. But pulled out handkerchiefs and ran out. One started weeping: "How can they do such a thing?" she whimpered. And, to be sure, it was pathetic.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

An Egyptian View.
Captain Hakim Ivan, formerly of the Egyptian intelligence, who, in Egypt, writes that the Druse revolt is the result of secret French plotting between Turkey and France against Britain. He charges that the concentration of Turkish troops in the Mosul region already amounts to 100,000 effective and that this would not have been possible, had it not been that France allowed Turkish troops to pass through the mandated territory of Syria. The Druses are out for independence, says Captain Hakim. The Turks in the old days respected their freedom and did not exact tribute taxes. The Druses will resist to the death and would not be averse to have British suzerainty and have their country linked with Palestine. Captain Hakim thinks this would be the best solution, also in the interest of Palestine. The Druse country is of great strategic importance. Through it passes the Damascus-Haifa railway and the Constantinople-Arabia railway. Turkey has never given up the idea of conquering Jerusalem, he says and therefore the protecting power of Palestine ought to occupy this position that dominates the country. The captain writes in an Egyptian newspaper and from his declarations it becomes quite clear, that apart from the friendly tete a tete between Mr. Chamberlain and M. De Lorain, the new governor general of Syria, a great deal is going on behind the scenes, not exactly in the nature of an entente cordiale.

Dr. Nordau's Daughter.
Maxa Nordau, daughter of Dr. Max Nordau, internationally famous philosopher and critic, and herself a painter of talent, is coming to America because of the death of her father, the daughter of one of the most colorful personalities of the fin de siecle, will be able to maintain the great Nordau tradition of being an interpreter of one nation to another. For it was Dr. Nordau, who in his capacity of Paris correspondent of the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna, made the name of Nordau a household word of greater importance than that of the Austrian ambassador to France. Dr. Nordau fell victim to war hysteria and Jewish persecution. Though a psychoanalyst, he had become part and parcel of Parisian social life, his Hungarian birth was the cause that he was banished to Spain. His property and his library were confiscated and though he was invited back to France after the war, his goods were not restored, although M.

Liszt as Press Agent.
"Genius in the preceding generation forged ahead without the aid of a press agent," said a magazine editor the other day in a speech. As a general rule, the press agent is an exception. Consider the case of Liszt. When he first began to play in public he came to places where he was not known. He was a young man, but he was not a novice. One evening there were only a dozen persons in the auditorium. Instead of playing, he invited them all to supper, where he treated them to trifles and game and champagne. In season and all the delicatessen of the season. Then he sat down at the piano and played for his guests for two hours. They were so taken with him that they could play a few days later he announced his return to a larger hall. It was filled to capacity, but the audience was not invited to supper. As a press agent, even Liszt could have given points to the best of our days.

What of Your Influence?
Text: "We also go with thee."
John 21:3.

Our text shows us the influence which Peter had over his fellow disciples. So likewise everyone has influence in some measure over those who are about him.

Does it lift up or drag down? Does it bless or blight? Does it co-operate with God in saving men, or does it do devil's work? Is it such that you would like to have him brought to bear upon a pure little child whom you love?

There are always business men were telling why they became Christians.

ing of feet. I was always singing: 'Thy So Sweet to Trust in Jesus.'"

From Direct Descendant of Robert Morris

Editor Constitution: Some time ago I read with exceeding interest an article which appeared on your editorial page from W. A. Brannon, of Moreland, Ga., in reference to Robert Morris of revolutionary fame.

I so often have wondered why that part of our U. S. history has been so neglected.

It seems to me that I read, some several years ago, an article which stated that the D. A. R. had never given recognition of or special marking to the grave of Robert Morris in Philadelphia.

I am clipping your articles of Atlanta by Mr. Small, for a scrap-book for my library and there is never a day that I find something of interest in your paper for one of my books, along some line.

I have an interesting old document of 1794 bearing the personal signature of Robert Morris, which I prize most highly, and which has been handed down to me. Robert Morris was my great, great, grand-uncle.

Thousands of Germans are dancing in unison with merry-makers in London, New York and Pittsburgh.

My Story of Atlanta

CHAPTER XVI
The Peachtree Street of Olden Times

Atlanta's First Lawyers.
The living have innumerable disputes and some of the dead leave wills to be construed or unanticipated estates to be legally administered; while as long as the devil is loose and men are men there will be crime committed and criminals to be prosecuted and defended. So when the sons of men come together in communities, the lawyer comes also. Not as a necessary evil, either, for one of America's greatest lawyers has said: "It belongs to the lawyer to study the right of individuals in their various relations to each other and to the state, and to see that they are secured by a just administration of the laws of the land."

The attorney who first decided to try his fortune-hunt in the fields of Atlanta litigation was L. C. Simpson, who hung out his shingle in Marthasville after its incorporation. He is reputed to have been a lawyer of learning and a practitioner of skill before a court and jury. He also had a penchant for politics, as most lawyers have, and his chance to indulge it was his first time in Atlanta, that period when most of the leading citizens were intent upon business developments.

Either he was a proficient preceptor in law, or was the only available one, as he had students reading under him who afterwards became notable lawyers and jurists. The first of these was Samuel B. Hoyt, uncle of Samuel H. Venable. Judge Hoyt came here in 1845 on horseback from east Tennessee to clerk in the store of Jonathan Norcross. After six months he resigned that vocation and began to prepare his way into the legal profession. He had a strong mind, self-reliance and a practitioner of skill before a court and jury. He also had a penchant for politics, as most lawyers have, and his chance to indulge it was his first time in Atlanta, that period when most of the leading citizens were intent upon business developments.

John Collier, of Decatur, afterwards so eminent in Atlanta affairs, was also a Simpson student and had as fellow-alumni of that office-school the late Samuel B. Hoyt, Mayor of Atlanta, and Judge William E. May and James M. Calhoun. Those names are enough to prove that Simpson was an able teacher of law.

In that era the only courts here were the mayor's court to deal with infractions of city ordinances and the court of a justice of the peace to try petty cases and examine alleged crimes against "the peace and dignity of the state." All other cases were heard in the superior court of DeKalb county, at the courthouse in Decatur. "Horses and saddle-bags" were even more needed in the impediments of our local lawyers than were the stumens of Blackstone in England. Riding the circuit was as usual as in the time of Jeffries and Norbury in England.

Only within very recent years has an Atlanta judge of the superior court been relieved of the duty of holding court semi-annually in DeKalb and Clayton counties.

The county was not created until 1854 and at that time Atlanta became the county seat, entitled to a courthouse and the sittings of the superior court of the county. The Atlanta judge of the superior court, the "Atlanta spirit" that has never wavered or waned, the city fathers, with sure faith that the new city would be made and a courthouse be needed, had already provided a splendid site for the temple of justice and the city hall combined.

In the creation of the state capitol stands was then, in 1853, owned by Richard Peters and bore the name of "Peters' Reserve." The city council appointed a committee to negotiate the purchase of it. They reported that the price demanded was $5,000. That figure was pronounced somewhat steep, but the fathers voted to buy and on the first of July of that year title passed from Peters to the city. In 1877, it was ordered by the city to the people of Georgia as a capitol site, and, on the ratification of the capitol removal ordinance, became the property of the state.

As before related, Judge Clark Howell, grandfather of the present editor of The Constitution, had been engaged by the city council to go to Milledgeville and induce the general assembly to set up the new capitol. He met there some strong objective from DeKalb county, but he answered them with figures and arguments that convinced the legislators that the site was equal to the making of Fulton county. It was characteristic of Judge Howell that he refused compensation for his patriotic services, accepting only his expenses, $110.75, which the council cheerfully voted.

The building of the courthouse was the next order of the day. The foundation was in, the corner-stone was laid in the presence of a great and happy crowd, with due ceremonies, by the officers of the Grand Lodge of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons of Georgia. The dedication of the finished structure was in 1856. The cost of the building was $30,000; it was 70 by 100 feet in dimensions, three stories in height, and a storage basement. For its day it was an impressive public building, especially as it was surrounded by a commodious park that Haywood magnified into "an imposing dome."

SEMINARY CAMPAIGN PROBABLY SUCCESS

Final reports on subscriptions for Columbia Theological seminary to be removed to Atlanta, will be made this morning at a meeting of the committee in charge. It is expected that the report will be favorable and that the campaign has been a success, leaders announced.

Scholarships of $2,500 each from Vineville Presbyterian church, Macon; William Murphy, of Savannah; Mrs. Evelyn M. Clay, of Savannah; and Mrs. Alf S. Bourne, of Augusta, and a gift of $10,000 from Mrs. Robert M. Butler, of Savannah, have been reported at Atlanta headquarters. These gifts, with other prospective gifts, will bring the final total to $600,000, which is the goal, it is believed.

Following the meeting today, arrangements will be made to let contracts for buildings and to arrange for transfer of the seminary from Columbia, S. C. Plans will be completed for celebration of the centennial of the seminary in Atlanta at the opening session in 1927.

Members of the committee in charge of this work are composed of Dr. J. Sproule Lyons, of Atlanta, chairman; Dr. Neal L. Anderson, of Savannah; J. L. Brantley, of Blackshear; J. Bulow Campbell, of Atlanta; the Rev. S. J. Carledge, of Athens; the Rev. J. B. Ficken, of Decatur; the Rev. F. G. Hartman, of Washington; W. D. Hooper, of Athens; the Rev. E. R. Leysburn, of Rome; Dr. J. H. Patton, of Marietta; the Rev. R. F. Simpson, of Americus; Edgar Watkins, of Atlanta; Marion Smith, of Atlanta, and J. S. Kennedy, of Atlanta.

GOVERNOR TO MAKE STATEMENT TODAY ON EXTRA SESSION

With the return of Governor Cliff Walker to his desk Wednesday after a week's visit to Washington, D. C., reports were in circulation at the capital that the governor is preparing to call an extra session of the legislature to remedy the Confederate veterans' scrip law and probably will fix the date for the session as January 20.

The governor declined Wednesday to discuss the question of calling the legislature together, but said he would have a statement ready for publication some time Thursday. Governor Walker attended several conferences at Washington and also visited Baltimore, where Mrs. Walker has been undergoing treatment in a hospital. Mrs. Walker accompanied the governor home and is much improved in health. One of the conferences attended by the governor was to discuss plans for opening the Chattahoochee river to navigation.

On his return to his desk, the governor took up several routine business matters which developed during his absence.

Extradition Granted To South Carolina For Quintet of Youths

Extradition papers for five young white men wanted by police at Blaney, S. C., on a charge of robbing a store, issued by Governor Thomas C. McLeod, governor of South Carolina, were honored Wednesday by Governor Clifford Walker following hearing of the case held in his office. The men gave their names as Sam Cody and A. B. Rush, of Schemeddy, N. Y., and Joe Karl, Bill Lapp and John Thompson, of Treason, N. J. They were taken into custody Sunday near Atlanta, Ga.

Attorney General John M. Daniel, of South Carolina, represented the state in the hearing before Governor Walker. The men are alleged to have entered a store at Blaney and to have taken merchandise valued at more than $1,000.

The men were on their way to Florida and were arrested near Alma Sunday on a charge of discharging firearms on Sunday. Investigators disclosed the fact that they possessed a large quantity of cigarettes bearing South Carolina stamps, and other goods. They were held on charges of breaking into a store at Blaney.

Plentiful Supply Of Xmas Turkeys Available for City

Plenty of fine Christmas turkeys at reasonable prices are available in this year, fowl dealers said Wednesday.

While wholesale lots of turkeys are selling for 45 cents per pound, retail prices range a bit higher. Prices prevailing now will probably be in force during the Christmas season, dealers said.

Negro Is Arrested As Driver of a Truck That Injured Woman

Jim Morrison, negro, of 11 Fitzgerald street, was arrested Wednesday and is held without bond at police station in connection with the serious injury of Mrs. Edna Warren, of 22 Plum street, who was struck by an automobile last week. The driver of the machine did not stop. Reports from the hospital that Mrs. Warren is rapidly growing worse spurred the police in an effort to locate the driver.

The accident occurred at Marietta and Hunnicutt streets, as Mrs. Warren was boarding a street car. She fell on the running board of the automobile, which probably saved her life.

PROMINENT VALDOSTA WOMAN IS DEAD

The body of Mrs. J. W. Griffin, prominent Valdosta woman, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, Wednesday morning, was taken to Valdosta this morning for funeral services and interment.

Mrs. Griffin was widely known throughout the state and was a member of a prominent Georgia family. She was the wife of J. N. Griffin, prominent merchant of Valdosta. Mrs. Griffin was the daughter of the late Captain James W. Staten and had lived in Valdosta practically all her life.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Griffin is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Hardman, of Commerce; two sisters, Miss Kate Staten and Miss Della Staten, both of Valdosta, and a brother, J. L. Staten, of Charlotte, N. C. H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

SCHOOL APPOINTMENT HONORS ATLANTAN

John T. Trimble, of 100 1-2 North Pryor street, student at the George Washington university law school was appointed to represent his university at the world court conference held at Princeton university December 11 and 12, news received here Wednesday said. This is one of several honors which have come to Mr. Trimble since entering George Washington university.

He was a member of a debating team which recently defeated Oxford university of England in a debate on the recognition of Russia. His team championed the negative. Mr. Trimble is a senior of the law school which has nearly 6,000 students this year.

DR. LEWIS HEADS LEGION AT ROME

Rome, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—Dr. W. H. Lewis was elected commander of the Shanklin-Atterbury post, American legion, last night at one of the most enthusiastic meetings held by the organization in a year. Despite the weather, a large number of members attended the meeting.

With Dr. Lewis, who succeeds Julian Reese as commander, comes a new set of officers. The members of the post believe that they have succeeded in getting another live crowd to direct their affairs for the year.

Elected with Dr. Lewis to serve this year were: D. M. Plowden, senior vice commander; Roy Young, junior vice commander; James A. Nichols, adjutant; Herbert McKennie, finance officer; B. Broyles, chaplain; E. L. Wright, historian, and L. R. Green, sergeant at arms.

Joe Carr, who is adjutant, has retired from the position of adjutant of the local post to devote his entire time to his state position, and James Nichols was selected to take his place. Nichols is a former member of the post of South Broad Methodist church, was elected to take the place of Ensign John Horgan, who has moved from Rome.

The new officers will be installed on January 11, when an interesting program is being planned, in which several state officers are expected to take part.

FRANK WRIGHT DIES

Rome, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—News has been received in Rome of the death of Frank H. Wright, formerly of Rome, who died in Philadelphia Sunday morning. He had been ill several months.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Wright, of Rome, and was a world traveler. His residence in Rome is survived by his widow; three sisters, Mrs. G. S. Sargent, Misses Mabel and Ruth Wright, and brother, John Wright, all of Rome.

The body reached Rome Wednesday afternoon and funeral services will be held from the residence of his parents on McGhee street Thursday morning. Rev. T. C. Chastain, of Anniston, Ala., will conduct the services. Interment in Myrtle Hill cemetery.

Pioneer Dies

Rome, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—Miss Lu Maunier, well known and beloved Roman, died at the home of her nephew, Dudley Magruder, Tuesday morning following a long illness.

Miss Magruder was born in Orange county, Virginia, and was the daughter of the late James Magruder. Her mother was Miss Lou Maunier, of Virginia. Miss Magruder would have been 80 years of age December 23.

She was an aunt of Dudley and Sam Maunier, and Mrs. Guy Coltrane, of Rome, and Mrs. A. Leath, of Birmingham. She had lived in Rome for many years and before her illness was active in all religious and civic affairs.

Masons Elect Officers. Rome, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—S. Frank Gentry was last night elected worshipful master of Cherokee lodge, Masons, for 1926 and Walter A. Johnson of the Berry schools, senior named senior warden, and D. W. Holland was chosen as junior warden.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one and largely attended, and was followed by a banquet.

J. W. Whitehead is retiring worshipful master and Cherokee lodge under his care and direction has made big advances.

In the election of Mr. Gentry, Cherokee lodge has placed one of the youngest Masons in the state in its helm, and with William F. Barron, of Oostanaula lodge, Rome, has two of the youngest worshipful masters in the state.

Other officers elected were: G. C. Byars, re-elected treasurer; H. D. Climer, re-elected secretary; Maurice Caldwell, senior deacon; E. Turner, junior deacon; W. S. Beck, senior steward; Hamilton Grant, junior steward; Henry Simmons, third steward; W. M. McDuffie, tyler. The chaplain will be named later, it was announced.

Women of Texas To Desert 'Ma,' Leader Declares

Dallas, Texas, December 16.—(Special.)—Women of Texas will oppose the reelection of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, Mrs. J. D. Claybrook, of Austin, Texas, president of the state democratic women's association, declared today in an address before the democratic women of Dallas county. Mrs. Claybrook said the women of Texas, regardless of party, are not behind Mrs. Ferguson and would not reelect her.

This is considered the first official announcement of the democratic women's organization on a second term for Mrs. Ferguson.

Mrs. Claybrook, while president of the organization, was an ardent supporter first of Judge Felix D. Robertson, defeated by Mrs. Ferguson in the democratic primaries, and later she supported Dr. George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor against Mrs. Ferguson.

Other women's organizations have taken a stand against Mrs. Ferguson. The Women's Christian Temperance union in annual convention denounced her administration in its relation to law enforcement, and officials of the organization individually said they would oppose Mrs. Ferguson. Miss Mary E. Jagoe, of Denton, president of the League of Women Voters, said she did not believe Mrs. Ferguson represented the women of the state and that she understood Mrs. Ferguson herself did not claim to be a leader of the women's movement. She said women of Texas deplored the fact that many persons outside the state accepted Mrs. Ferguson's election as a victory for women.

Dazed Man Leaves Hospital; Police Conducting Search

Police are searching for Sam Goldstein, 57, of 167 Capitol avenue, who left Grady hospital early Wednesday in a dazed condition suffering from a severe injury of the head. He was taken to the hospital after he was struck on the head by a falling limb from a tree in front of his home. In the clinic doctors left him for a short time to arrange for X-ray pictures and he wandered out of the building. He has not been seen since.

IRISH CONSTABULARY ISSUE GROWS SERIOUS

Belfast, Ireland, December 16.—(Special.)—The strike of the "A Special" constabulary in Ulster took a grave turn this afternoon when all platoons of this force in county Tyrone, except that of Omagh, the county capital, joined the movement. They have seized motor trucks and quantities of munitions and control the wireless facilities. The movement is spreading rapidly.

ICE CREAM DEALERS OPEN FALL SESSIONS

Members of the Georgia Ice Cream association held their regular fall meeting at the Biltmore hotel Tuesday with a representative gathering of ice cream dealers from all parts of the state.

A luncheon was given at the hotel at noon and was followed by a business session in the afternoon. George Saucken, of Augusta, president, presided.

A demonstration of ice cream cabinets was given by Philip L'Eagle, J. D. Kinnitt, of Macon, who was recently elected president of the southern association, gave a short talk on the southern convention in Louisville.

$35,000 IN DAMAGES SOUGHT BY YOUTH FOR AUTO INJURIES

Two suits asking sum aggregating $35,000 were filed Wednesday in Fulton superior court by a youth and his father, as complainants. William M. Spraberry, through his father, W. R. Spraberry, asked $25,000 damages of the Southern Ties and Timber company for damages alleged to have been suffered when petitioner's car was driven by an agent of the company.

Young Spraberry claims that he was driving a grocery delivery wagon when a car owned and operated by the defendant company was driven against the wagon with such force that he was thrown from the wagon and pinned beneath the automobile as it turned turtle. His right leg was broken and he was otherwise injured, the petition sets out. The accident is alleged to have occurred November 28 at East Point.

Kleen Heat Burner Test in Schools Made by Official

The Winslow industrial heat burner was put to an eight-hour test at Daniel C. O'Keefe Junior High school Wednesday with a view of determining its heat value and its economy as compared with coal. The test was conducted by Professor Howell, of Georgia Tech, according to Waldo E. Oettinger, manager of the Southern Kleen Heat company. The official test lasted only eight hours but the oil burner will be continued in operation at the school for several days, it was announced. It was the contention of the Winslow representative that the test will show that one boiler operated by the oil burner will function more satisfactorily and economically than two boilers using coal. E. F. Fuchs, of the Southern Kleen Heat company, assisted in the test.

Insurance Discount Formerly Allowed Will Be Discontinued

The Southeastern Underwriters' association will discontinue the policy of discounting 10 per cent from insurance rates in Atlanta on dwellings and contents where owners of the building present a building inspection certificate, according to announcement in the current issue of The Insurance Field.

The policy which has been in effect here for the past 25 years, was begun when there were no regular inspections of buildings and was instituted to encourage owners to have their buildings inspected, it is said.

Cruelty Is Charged To Wife by Husband In Divorce Action

Alleging that his wife, Mrs. Luella Lang, soon after their marriage in March, 1920, told him she did not love him, but that "her love belonged to another," that she caused him to be arrested and jailed on fictitious charges and further charging her with being a participant in "drunken brawls," Felix Lang Wednesday filed suit for divorce in Fulton superior court.

Lang claims that he had been disillusioned only a few days after their marriage and that he had been treated cruelly by her since their wedding. He declared she had refused to tell him who she loved.

INCENDIARY FIRE REPORTED BY CODY

Another of a series of fires of incendiary origin was reported Wednesday by Fire Chief W. B. Cody, who said that a fire at a vacant house at 253 East Fair street was caused by firebugs Wednesday. The fire did little damage as firemen arrived before the flames had gained much headway.

The fire started in a closet, but was discovered by neighbors before it was well under way. Chief Cody issued warning for the public to watch for firebugs as they have been responsible for more than 35 fires within six months.

The condition of four members of the family of J. L. Boone, of Simpsville, who are at Grady hospital suffering from typhoid fever is serious, hospital physicians announced Wednesday. Members of the family who are in the hospital are Mrs. Boone, 31; and three children, Curtis, 6; Jesse, 5, and Retha, 3.

BAR EXAMS TAKEN BY 22 APPLICANTS

State bar examinations were taken Wednesday by 22 would be attorneys before Judge E. D. Thomas of Fulton superior court. One woman and three negroes were among applicants for examination. Results will be announced within a few days.

A TREMENDOUS PRICE REDUCTION

On January seventh, 1926, Dodge Brothers, Incorporated, will announce a tremendous reduction in the prices of their complete line of motor cars.

These prices will apply on all cars bought after midnight, December fifteenth, 1925.

When the new prices are made known on January seventh, the full amount of the reductions will be immediately refunded to all purchasers since December fifteenth.

These revolutionary reductions are made possible by a recently completed Ten Million Dollar expansion program---new buildings and equipment that will nearly double the capacity of Dodge Brothers factories in 1926.

There is no change in the policy upon which Dodge Brothers established their leadership eleven years ago---the policy of constant improvement without yearly models.

Miss Pauline Ware Weds Mr. Neal At Beautiful Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Pauline Ross Ware and Bernard Neeson Neal, which was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the St. Mark Methodist church, was notable for its impressive solemnity and exquisite beauty, the occasion assembling several hundred members of the city's older and younger social contingent, also a large number of prominent out-of-town guests. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. James B. Mitchell, pastor of the church and the music was in charge of Mrs. Charles Hoke, organist, who rendered a beautiful and appropriate program preceding the marriage service, playing the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" at the entrance of the bride.

Handsome Decorations.
The wedding party stood around the chancel rail which was garlanded with ropes of southern smilax with clusters of shaggy white chrysanthemums artistically arranged at intervals. On each side of the altar were banks of palms and ferns, while similar foliage was used in pyramid effect at the back of the altar extending above the railing of the choir loft. Four large brass seven-branched candelabra, burning cathedral tapers, interspersed the foliage alternating with tall floor vases filled with huge white chrysanthemums, the whole effect forming a beautiful background for the wedding party. Floor baskets overflowing with swinsons, white chrysanthemums and smilax marked the pews reserved for the two families.

Bridal Party.
Thomas R. Frazer, William Reeves, Charles Boynton and Rolf Sims, who acted as ushers, entered first. They were followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen who descended the long aisles in pairs. They included Miss Page Melvin, of Selma, Ala.; Miss Gladys Neal, sister of the groom; Miss Corday Rice, Miss Evelyn Knox, Miss Isabel Howard, of Memphis; Miss Adelaide Flowers, Miss Mary Ross Flowers, of Montgomery, Ala.; and John Stewart, Welborn Cody, Joseph Walker, Jr., William T. Davidson, Rosa Beverly, of Thomasville; Jack Wilkins, Maurice Thomas, Arch Martin and a Robert Wimb-ley, of Thomasville.

The bridesmaids were dressed in exquisite models of orchid pink tulle veiling pastel pink gros de londres taffeta slips. Petals of the tulle maids and they carried sheaths of beautiful calla lilies.

Beautiful Bride.
The beautiful brunette beauty of the bride was enhanced by her wedding gown of lustrous white satin effectively combined with real lace. A pointed circular flounce of the lace formed the front part of the skirt, while beautiful rhinestone and pearl embroidery, in cascade effect, trimmed the front of the bodice. A narrow band of the delicate lace finished the round neckline in the front, extending to the V-shaped back. A stately court train of white satin was attached to the shoulders with tiny clusters of orange blossoms, the entire train being bordered with lace matching that which trimmed the gown. The handsome bridal veil of rose point lace worn by the bride belonged to Mrs. Theodore Lewis, of LaGrange, who before her recent marriage was Miss Caroline Howard, of Memphis, Tenn., and at whose wedding the former Miss Ware was an attendant. The veil was caught to the back of the head with sprays of valley lilies and fell gracefully to the end of her train. Falling to a short length over the face of the radiantly beautiful bride was a misty tulle veil which was fastened to a becoming lace coronet encircling the front of her head.

The only ornament worn by the bride was a handsome antique pearl necklace, a valued heirloom of her family and which adorned the neck of her mother at her wedding. She carried a gorgeous shower bouquet fashioned by Mrs. J. H. Cassil, at her home on East Tenth street.

Elaborate Reception.
Following the marriage service Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ware, parents of the bride, entertained at an elaborate reception at their home on Piedmont avenue. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Ware and the bride and groom were the members of the bridal party, L. G. Neal, father of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Frazer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Flowers, of Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. B. M. Ware, of Opelika, Ala.; Mrs. M. A. Sier and Mrs. Theodore Lewis, of LaGrange, Ga. They stood in the music room before a profusion of palms, ferns and foliage plants with baskets and floor stands of white chrysanthemums adding to the decoration. The chandeliers, doorways and broad windows of the spacious reception rooms were draped with ropes of smilax, the lights being shaded in yellow silk. The main floor, bookcases and tables were adorned with baskets and vases filled with fragrant sunset roses. In the dining room pink roses and similar flowers were in profusion. A three-tiered wedding cake, embossed in delicate pastel shades, was placed on a side table. The altar was a masterpiece of pink roses fringed with valley lilies, while a shower of these lovely flowers arose from the center of the beautiful cake.

Serving coffee were Mrs. A. L. Lippett and Miss Maude Couch. A. L. Lippett and Miss Maude Couch, assisting in entertaining were Miss Zoe Fischer, of Newnan, Mrs. Charles Currie, Miss Sue Brown Stone and Miss Frances Boykin.

During the reception hours an orchestra played under the direction of Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith Dobbs. Mrs. Ware, the bride's mother, wore an exquisite gown of French blue crepe embroidered in cut steel beads and rhinestones. An orchid and valley lily shoulder spray added to the loveliness of her costume.

Mrs. Thomas R. Frazer, the bride's aunt, was handsomely gowned in orchid shaded crepe beaded in rhinestones and she wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Edward P. Flowers wore a beautiful gown of white beaded crepe. Mrs. B. M. Ware, of Opelika, Ala., the bride's grandmother, was gowned in black satin trimmed in black fur and lace.

Mrs. A. M. Siler's gown was fashioned of black crepe trimmed in cream lace.

Mrs. Theodore Lewis wore an exquisite frock of white crepe beaded lavishly in crystals.

Wedding Trip.
During the evening Mr. Neal and his bride left for New Orleans from where they will sail for Panama and Cuba, returning January 10 to make their home for the present in the St. Andrews apartments. Mrs. Neal wore a striking traveling costume of blue cloth with cuffs and jabot of deep cream lace. Her hat was a smart model in blue velvet trimmed with a Persian band.

The table decorations were Lady Hillington roses and ferns. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Kenway, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Popple, Mr. Douglas Paine and Richard Hull.

Miss Bankhead Weds Mr. Davis.
Many Atlanta friends are interested in the marriage of Miss Louise Bankhead, of Jasper, Ala., and H. Melville Davis, of Birmingham, Ala., which was solemnized Tuesday evening very quietly at the "Little Church Around the Corner," in New York.

After the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Davis will be at home at the Hanover Court apartment in Birmingham.

The bride has hosts of friends in Atlanta, made on the occasion of visits to Miss Catherine Raine and Miss Louise Nelson.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bankhead, and the granddaughter of the late U. S. Senator Bankhead, for whom the Bankhead highway is named.

Her uncles are U. S. Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, and General Bankhead, of U. S. A. Corinne Bankhead, noted actress, is her aunt.

Mr. Davis is prominently identified with the real estate business in Birmingham and is both popular and prominent socially.

Miss Morrow Gives Bridge-Tea.
The first of a series of bridge parties at which Miss Jane Morrow is entertaining was the beautiful bridge-tee Wednesday afternoon which she gave at her home on Pace's Ferry road.

The home was attractively decorated in Christmas colors and the tea table in the dining room had as its central decoration a large basket filled with red roses and white narcissi. The candles held unshaded red candles.

The cakes and ices were also carried out in the Christmas colors.

Miss Morrow was assisted in entertaining guests by her mother, Mrs. James W. Morrow.

Mrs. Flowers Is Luncheon Hostess.
Mrs. W. H. Flowers entertained informally at luncheon Wednesday in the main dining room of the Atlanta-Biltmore hotel in honor of her niece, Miss Melodie Flowers, of Sullivan college, Bristol, Tenn., and Miss Mary Ross Flowers, of Goucher college, Baltimore, who are in Atlanta to attend the Ware-Neal wedding. # MUSIC'S DIVINE APPEAL CHARM'S LARGE AUDIENCE

Tech Kappa Sigma Will Give Children's Xmas Party At Chapter House Thursday

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

No daintier fragrance was ever wafted from any perfumed bower than that exhaled by the artistry of the performers who gave "The Romanians," that delightful little play of Rostand's, at the Woman's club Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Drama League.

Lovely Zaida Gray won her audience immediately by her piquant beauty, the musical intonation of her speaking voice and her great histrionic gift.

She was ably supported by actors of well-balanced parts.

Theirs was a vivid portrayal of life as it was to be found in France during the days corresponding with the Elizabethan period. The characters were grouped in sets. There were the two lovers, the two fathers, the Bravo—a fantastic, swaggering fellow—and the maid, whose chief reason for being introduced seemed that of throwing into relief the other characters. Her work, however, was of the same excellence as the others.

Types there were expressing the whole, a few straggling singers to stand for a band of strolling minstrels, a ruffian or two to represent a group of marauders, a vine-covered, blossoming wall to express a garden of rare beauty. To the physical eye the lack of these things might have been evident, however this was soon forgotten in the fulness of the portrayal given.

Though the plot was light, it was written around a delightful anti-climax, far-reaching in its scope and interest.

The challenge of the artists came through their lightness of technique. A part was expressed, the rest suggested. A wonderful reserve unexpressed there seemed, reaching beyond the limit of that which was given, stimulating the desire for more.

There was a portrayal of great daintiness and yet vigorous in its interpretation of life. And with it all, a luxuriance of warm, golden light flooded every scene. The costumes would have indeed done credit to Watteau, so exquisite in coloring and design was from the minutest detail on through.

A rare treat indeed was this performance of the Devaux players and much gratitude do we owe the Drama League, under the capable leadership of its president, Mrs. Edgar Neely, for such an opportunity as was here afforded Atlantans.

Artistic Program.

What art, in its broadest significance, means in the life of all of us is proven by the definite function of each of the arts as they touch our human spirits.

When we sat under the spell of the rise and fall of the beautiful cadences of the speaking voices of the Devaux players, listening to the ripple of the lines and catching the harmonies of the jingles of the couplets of Rostand's exquisite lines, we felt great enthusiasm in the realm of the intellect and our artistic temperaments as touched by the drama was in the ascendency.

When we sat yesterday morning at the Music club's performance and listened to the heavenly singing voices of the artists, this surely transcends all of the other arts in its emotional appeal! Music reaches beyond the intellect. Who was it that said "music can awaken in us the emotion we feel when we think the transcendent, the supernatural, the divine?"

Musical appeal is so personal! It is the deepest wells of inner life which respond to its touch. There is an spiritual uplift.

A very delightful morning was spent by the members of the Music club in the auditorium of the Woman's club. Miss Kepp gave an interesting talk on the evolution of opera from the beginning until the present time.

Beginning with the old Florentine masters she traced the development of opera through the different schools, the Florentine, the Neapolitan, the Italian, Wagnerian, French and down to today. Very instructive indeed was her talk.

This was followed by a program of

High Lights of Art Exhibit.

An interesting collection of portraits and landscape scenes features the exhibit of art to be seen each afternoon this week from 2 to 5 o'clock in the gallery in time of the Atlanta Woman's club.

The pictures are the work of Miss Mary Schuessler, of Rossmore, Ala., and Mrs. Herbert Dean Oliver, of Atlanta, and represent the results of a recent sketching tour through Europe, conducted by George Elmer Brown, an artist of note, who is well-known to Atlantans.

High lights among the collection include paintings by each of the artists of a very famous old bridge at Oudon, Spain, paintings of sardine boats in the treacherous Bay of Biscay, and some very fine portraits of women who were prominent in southern society.

Mrs. A. B. Colcord at a beautiful tea Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at her home on Gordon street.

Lovely decorations of Chrysanthemums were used throughout the house.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Harvey Clarke, Mrs. B. L. Williams, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Heath Williams and Mrs. W. B. Dudley.

Miss Lydia Williams, Miss Eleanor Williams and Miss Ninet Sharp served punch.

One hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Christmas Picture At Smilie School.

A Christmas story of Little Red Riding Hood will be the picture featured at Smilie school this afternoon at 3 o'clock. A good attendance is desired.

Mrs. Tyler Is Bridge Hostess.

Mrs. Swift Tyler, Jr., entertained at a delightful bridge party at her home on Barnett street Saturday afternoon.

The rooms where the game was played were bright with Christmas decorations. Following the luncheon was served at the individual tables.

Mrs. Tyler received her guests wearing a gown of black satin heavily beaded.

Those present: Misses Lilah Minter, Doris Baker, Laura Onkes, Freda Gavron, Maude Moyers, Mrs. C. W. Bishop, Mrs. J. D. Stevens and Mrs. J. A. Bazemore.

Visitors Honored At Lovely Affairs.

Many lovely affairs have been given in honor of Mrs. W. F. Wilmerding, of Detroit, Mich., the guest of her sister, Mrs. Julius Jennings, and Mrs. Louis Leonard, formerly of Atlanta, and the guest of Mrs. W. B. Carlton.

Mrs. Nell Lewis will entertain 50 friends at Nixey Lake this evening, complimenting Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Wilmerding.

Wednesday Mrs. Leonard entertained at luncheon at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

After which a matinee party and tea were enjoyed by the guests, including a few close friends.

Among others who have entertained in honor of these visitors are Mr. and Mrs. Priestly Orme, who were hosts at a dinner Sunday evening at their home at Stone Mountain.

Mrs. Wilmerding will be joined on Friday by Major Wilmerding, and they will leave Friday evening for their home in Detroit.

Atlanta Chapter D. A. R. Meets.

The Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., met Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Craigie House, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, regent, presiding.

Reports were made by the following officers: Mrs. J. D. Crum, second vice regent; Mrs. Drury Powers, recording secretary; Mrs. R. H. Caldwell, Jr., corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Breuninger, treasurer; Mrs. Thomas C. Mell, registrar; Mrs. A. W. Hodnett, librarian, and Mrs. John Marshall Staton, chairman board of management.

After the business session the chapter was delightfully entertained by a Christmas program. Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hoyt, beautifully recited the poem, "Why the Chimes Rang."

Mrs. Denny Petet sang the following number: "Gesu Bambino," by Pietro A. Yon and Pauline. The choir was accompanied by Miss Ruth Dabney Smith, violinist, and Miss Edith Holliday, pianist.

Mrs. J. P. Venable read an interesting paper that she had written. The subject was "Woodrow Wilson as an Educator."

Mrs. Howard McCall, retiring vice president, General National Society D. A. R. from Georgia, made an inspiring talk on the new D. A. R. auditorium to be built in Washington.

D. C. Mrs. McCall urged that the memorial chairs in the auditorium be reserved for those who wish to honor a member or chairmen of the Atlanta chapter, the first by Howard McCall, Sr., in honor of Mrs. McCall, the second by Mrs. Allen Davis, in memory of her sister, Mrs. William, who, during her life was a beloved and admired member of the Atlanta chapter.

The distinguished visitors of the afternoon were Miss Blackburn ex-vice president general national society from Kentucky and Mrs. M. G. Coon, ex-regent, National Green chapter, Greenville, S. C.

The chapter house was artistically decorated with poinsettia and ferns. Tea was served by Mrs. Moreland Speer, Mrs. Charles Brower and Mrs. C. B. Walker at the close of the meeting.

Extensive Plans For Xmas Matinees.

The biggest and best of all the Christmas matinees that have for five years delighted the hearts of Atlanta children—those blessed with this world's goods, and those who are not—will be given Saturday of this week and Wednesday morning next, for the needy children of the Atlanta public schools, who will be admitted by special ticket.

Santa Claus, who has finished his house, will be standing by this Saturday ready to greet the matinee kiddies and to receive any gifts they care to put down the chimney for the less fortunate youngsters, who will have their party next week. Many hundreds of gifts were brought last week, but many of those who forgot will wish to bring theirs this week, and clothing, both new or old, toys, candy or fruits will be so welcome.

The "Saturday mother" says, "Let's fill it to overflowing, so that every little child will be happy for Christmas."

The feature picture chosen for the matinee, "The Top of New York," has been sent down here especially from New York city and tells a wonderful Christmas story. A Baby Perry two-reel comedy entitled "Jack and the Beantalk" will be a novel and delightful film, Peggy taking the part of "Jack," and of course there's a giant.

The annual Christmas service of the North Avenue Presbyterian school will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the school.

The musical part of the program, which will be beautifully symbolic of the Christmas season, will have as directors, Mrs. Morgan Stephens, for the young people's orchestra; Mrs. Harvey Barry, for the Girl Scout carollers, while Melvin Ogden will preside at the organ and have charge of the ensemble singing of the carols, which will be led by 30 scouts from troops 9, 4, 12 and 18.

"Joy to the World" will be the first number, performed by the youthful orchestra, members of which have been training for this purpose for weeks. Baril's "Cradle Song," rendered by Miss Allen Stephens, with Mrs. Thad Morrison as accompanist, will be followed by the carollers in "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," by the orchestra; a violin solo, "Kalinka," by Mrs. Stephen, and "The Three Kings," by the Girl Scout carollers, are succeeded by the orchestra in "Jingle Bells."

The final feature of the musical program will be ensemble singing of "Silent Night," by the entire audience, led by Melvin Ogden.

Among others who will occupy the stage will be a group of little violinists, members of the Junior String orchestra, of the Morgan Stephens school.

Chapters Saturday will be Mrs. John G. Courtney, chairman, and Mrs. A. J. Golden, from Gordon P-T. A.; P. Deacon, Moreland school; L. R. Coley, Inman P-T. A.; Mrs. Naedele, Bass Junior High; Richard Jones, O'Keefe Junior High; J. B. Coleman, Commercial High; Ernest Brown, Stanton, and W. M. Leppard, O'Keefe. The matinee starts at 9:30 o'clock and the admission is ten cents.

Miss Hollis to Honor School Girls.

Miss Josephine Hollis will be hostess at an informal bridge luncheon Wednesday, December 23, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Cheney on Avery road, to honor a group of attractive school girls returning home for the holidays.

A number of the college set will be invited to meet the honor guests.

Christmas Cantata At St. John's Church.

Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock the choir of St. John's M. E. church will render a special Christmas cantata, "The Messiah's Coming," by Wildermere.

The members and friends of St. John are invited to hear this beautiful work.

The personnel of the choir is: Sopranos, Mrs. Ermine Everett, Mrs. E. W. Trulnick, Mrs. J. H. Bradford, Mrs. J. B. Allen, Miss Lila Clark, King, Miss Claire Jones, Mrs. Grover Diden, Mrs. W. H. McCleskey, Miss Annette Moore, Miss Louise Finch; altos, Mrs. W. Davis, Mrs. E. Finch, Miss Nellie Johnson, Mrs. Shelley Ivey; tenors, E. H. Rogers, Rev. J. B. Allen, Marvin Bosworth, Sam Calloway, Rev. L. M. Twilz; basses, Chas. McLaughlin, Stafford Graydon; organist and director, Mrs. W. A. Delamar.

Old Maids' Convention At Adair School.

Another meeting of the Old Maids' convention will be held at the Adair school beginning at 8 o'clock Friday evening, December 18. Admission will be 25 cents. The proceeds will go to the benefit fund of the Stewart Avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

Young Matrons' Bible Class Will Meet.

The Young Matrons' Bible class announces their class meeting Friday night, December 18, at Mrs. Carl Owens, 783 East North avenue. Everybody with cars is requested to meet at 7:30 o'clock at the church.

Officers' Club Holds Meeting.

An interesting event of Friday afternoon was the first meeting of the Officers' club of Woodberry hall at the home of Mrs. Louise Wilcox, on Terrace drive.

At this meeting Miss Virginia Boyer, president of the Delta Pi Delta sorority, was elected president and Miss Sarah Hoshall, president of the Pi Epsilon sorority, was elected secretary and treasurer of the club.

After the business meeting bridge was played. The top score prize, a lovely shoulder corsage bouquet, was won by Miss Sarah Hoshall. The low score prize was won by Miss Electra Mae Anderson.

The reception room where the guests were entertained was beautifully decorated with Christmas greens, yellow and white chrysanthemums and narcissi. The tea table had as centerpiece a miniature Christmas tree. Each guest was presented with a large yellow or white chrysanthemum as a gift from the hostess.

Miss Campbell Is Given Reception By Mrs. J. B. Campbell

At a beautiful reception given by Mrs. John Bulow Campbell on Thursday afternoon, at her lovely home "Belvoir" on Andrews drive, Miss Virginia Campbell was introduced to her mother's friends, a large group of prominent members of Atlanta society.

The home was beautifully decorated with lovely cut flowers and greenery. Mrs. Campbell and Miss Campbell received their guests in the drawing room, standing in front of masses of foliage plants, and surrounded by bouquets of the most exquisite flowers, sent by hosts of friends of the young debutante and her parents, to greet her on her formal entrance into Atlanta society.

Mrs. Campbell was groomed most becomingly in a French gown of black velvet made with straight lines, with garniture of cream lace and touches of blue. Her corsage was of Parma violets and lilies of the valley.

Miss Campbell was groomed in a Lanvin model of soft blue satin, made bouffant and trimmed with exquisite lace and most becoming to her dainty loveliness. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids and valley lilies, and a corsage of Parma violets and pink roses.

Alexander Bonneyman, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Miss Martha Berry, of Rome, guests of Miss Campbell, assisted Mrs. Campbell in receiving and entertaining the guests.

Miss Berry was groomed in heavy lavender satin becomingly fashioned, and Mrs. Bonneyman wore an imported gown of black velvet and an exquisite necklace of emeralds.

The table in the dining room, covered with point de Venise lace, had in the center a mound of hyacinths, daffodils, roses, narcissi, Parma violets, the shades of pink predominating. Rising from the center were tall sprays of pink rosebuds, cascading with the rosebuds in graceful sprays and held in a large silver urn. Unshaded pink tapers were in silver candlesticks, these tied with lovely pink roses in sprays. Slender silver candelabra held the daintiest of confections in rose pink.

Punch was served in the library from bowls embedded in spring blossoms in delicate pastel colors.

A program of delightful music was rendered by an orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Spier To Honor Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. George Caldwell Spier will be hosts at the Christmas dinner-dance at the Biltmore hotel, and at the New Year's eve dinner-dance at the Capital City club, commencing Monday, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harry Fischer, of Charleston, S. C., John Kirkland, of Greensboro, N. C., who will be their guests for the holidays.

Mrs. George Caldwell Spier entertained at the Music Study club Wednesday, followed by a luncheon at the Capital City club and matinee party at the Howard, complimenting Mrs. Jan Rubini and Mrs. Kenneth W. Fertig. Other guests were Mrs. Frank Neely, Mrs. J. J. Franklin and Miss Madeline Keipp.

Carol Singing By Girl Scouts.

Carol singing by the girl scouts will feature the Saturday morning children's matinee at the Howard theater, December 19, at 9:30 o'clock. The young carollers will be accompanied by the organ by Melvin Ogden in the beautiful old carols, "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing."

Thirty scouts from troops 4, 9, 12,

18 and 24 will take part and will meet in the lobby of the theater at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Newton Wing, chairman of the better films committee, under whose auspices the children's matinees are given, states that the service which the girl scouts render in helping to take care of the little children on Saturday mornings has been of inestimable value to the committee.

On account of the annual Christmas tree at the Howard, the Girl Scout Patrol Leaders' association will meet at the chamber of commerce at 11 o'clock instead of 10 o'clock as previously announced.

Mrs. White Honors Miss Liebig.

A lovely occasion was the tea Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John A. White, on MacKenzie drive, to compliment Miss Liebig, of Chicago, who is in Atlanta visiting her sister, Mrs. G. Walter Klier.

Mrs. White was assisted in serving by the beautiful little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Howard. Those present were: Mrs. John P. Irvin, Mrs. M. L. Dugan, Mrs. George Greenway, Mrs. G. Walter Klier, Mrs. E. L. Miller, Mrs. J. H. Howard, Miss Martha Collingsworth, Mrs. E. M. Powers, Mrs. Jay Van Rogers, the Misses Edythe and Alice Howard and Mrs. John A. White.

Phi Beta Pi Has Banquet.

Beta Beta chapter of the Phi Beta medical fraternity of Emory university was host to visiting members of the fraternity Saturday evening, December 12, at the Daffodil. Dr. R. H. Kracke acted as toastmaster. Short talks were given by Dr. Lawson G. Lowery, supreme secretary;

Dr. A. O. Lynch, newly-elected southern praetor; Dr. Charlie Adams, Dr. J. L. Pierce and representatives of other chapters present.

The members of the local chapter are: Charlie Adams, T. V. Wallis, G. L. Kilgore, J. L. Pierce, J. E. Kirby, E. Thompson, G. G. Yencer, E. G. Williams, M. J. Lawrence, R. A. Garner, O. H. Hagen, J. DR. SOULE RETURNS FROM WASHINGTON

Athens, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia State College of Agriculture, has returned from Washington where he attended an important conference on drainage in the southern states and on loans to farmers in the drought area of Georgia and South Carolina.

Dr. Soule spoke at both conferences and also took a number of interested delegates something about the building of Camp Wilkins, the first project of its kind in America, where hundreds of club boys and girls are housed and entertained annually at the college of agriculture.

MONTE CARLO

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

EST. 1898

SYNOPSIS.

His Hargrave Wendover, country gentleman and financier, calls on a famous London physician for examination. The doctor's diagnosis shocks the baronet. That night Sir Hargrave dines with three friends: Philip Stone, a clergyman; Lord Edward Pillingham, a politician; and John Marston, a stock broker. Sir Hargrave asks his friends how they would spend the interval if they were suddenly faced with the knowledge that their careers would terminate at the end of six or eight months. Each answers him in characteristic fashion. Stone stays on after the others leave, and Wendover tells him the doctor has given him his marching orders.

INSTALLMENT IV.

AN IMPRESSIVE PERSONALITY.

Hargrave tapped a cigarette upon his case thoughtfully. He remembered stories he had heard about respectable tradesmen who had been obliged to go through the ignominy of failure through lack of a little capital.

"Worried, eh?" he repeated. "Why, how's that, Mr. Martin? Business is good, isn't it?"

"Never knew it better," the gunmaker confessed. "The fact is, sir," he confided, lowering his voice, "I've had a wonderful offer for amalgamation with another firm—one of the tiptop houses—and I can't quite make up my mind whether to accept it or not."

"I see," Hargrave murmured, by this time thoroughly discouraged. "Well, good luck to you, whichever way you decide."

Notwithstanding a slight rain, he continued his journey on foot, and came to the conclusion by the time he had reached his hairdresser's that he had never seen a more contented and cheerful looking lot of pedestrians. At the coiffeur's he was received with all the consideration due to an occasional but respected client. He submitted himself to the ministrations of his regular attendant, who shaved him and trimmed his hair.

"You're looking very well, Sir Hargrave, if I may be permitted to say so," the young man remarked.

"Yes, I am very well," Hargrave acknowledged. "Sorry I can't say the same of you," he added, with a sudden gleam of hope as he noticed the lines under the young man's eyes. You look as though you needed a holiday. A month down at the seaside, eh?"

The assistant leaned confidentially down.

"To tell you the truth, sir," he admitted, "me and my young woman had a bit of a tiff last night. She's earning too much money, and that makes her uppish. I worried about it and couldn't sleep. She'll be all right today, though."

"I hope so," Hargrave remarked dryly as he rose to his feet, slipped his usual tip into the young man's hand, and passed into the manicure room.

The manageress bustled forward to meet him.

"Miss Martin is disengaged, sir," she announced, "the only young lady we have free at the moment."

"Miss Martin will do very nicely for me," Hargrave replied, as he seated himself in the vacant cubicle.

Entirely from this recently acquired habit, he looked more closely than ever before into the face of the attendant who had drawn her stool to his side. She was perhaps a little pale, but it was a face entirely free from any signs of discontent. For the first time he realized that she was, notwithstanding the extreme simplicity of her clothes, a remarkably good looking young woman. She had a clear skin, utterly untouched by cosmetics, soft hazel brown eyes, a quantity of neatly arranged light brown hair, and a delightful mouth. Her figure—peculiarly graceful she seemed as she leaned forward—was still the figure of a young girl, and the casual interest with which he had looked at her was merged, somewhat to his surprise, in a genuine admiration. Nevertheless she bent over her task, as he was bound to perceive, with rather less animation than usual.

"Is it my fancy," he asked presently, "or are you not quite as cheerful as usual this morning?"

She looked up at him quickly, almost nervously.

"I'm sorry," she said. "It's hard to be cheerful this weather, though, isn't it?"

"I should think so," he admitted, looking gloomily out of the window.

"Besides," she went on, "as a rule you have the air of not wanting to talk much."

"I'm afraid you must find me a little unsocial."

She shook her head.

"Not at all. Why should you expect to be talked in or to talk while you are having your nails done? Purposeless conversation is so irritating, isn't it?"

"One might talk more seriously," he suggested.

She examined one of his nails thoughtfully and changed the file she was using.

"One might," she admitted, "but it would be rather difficult to find different subjects with one's casual clients, wouldn't it? They tell me, for instance, that you're a hunting man. Well, I don't know anything about hunting."

"I hear enough of it down at home," he remarked. "I'd rather talk about what interests you—the best films to see or the best show at the theaters."

"There again I'm no use," she confided. "I haven't been to either for a month."

Hargrave sat up a little in his chair.

"Why not?" he ventured.

"Lack of invitations, I suppose," she answered lightly. "One or two people who used to ask me out sometimes don't bother about me any more. I have come to the conclusion that I am a very unpopular person."

He looked at her again curiously. Although he was not in any sense of the word a woman's man, he had correct tastes, and with them considerable insight. He realized for the first time in those few moments that apart from her physical qualities she was really a young woman of considerable attractions. Her expression pleased him. There was a pleasant frankness about her speech, a lack of embarrassment without familiarity which was distinctive. Her personality, too, impressed him more favorably every time he looked at her.

"If I may say so without impertinence," he remarked, "I should have thought that you would have been a popular person among the younger members of my sex."

"I really am not," she assured him, smiling. "Even if I were I don't know that it would give me much satisfaction. Most of the young men I meet, at any rate, are painfully alike in every respect."

"I'm afraid we older ones are pretty well made in the same mold," he ventured.

She looked up at him quickly.

"I would rather think that you weren't," she said.

She completed her task, handed him a ticket, and rose a little abruptly to her feet. She shook her head dubiously at the tip he laid upon the table.

"You should not give me so much," she protested.

He affected not to hear and hurried off. At the door he glanced around. She was standing with her hands behind her, looking out of the streaming window panes, and there was something in her expression which haunted him for the rest of the day.

Hargrave lunched by appointment with Marston at his club. The conversation was casual enough until the cigars and coffee had arrived. Then Hargrave, after a careful glance around the room to make sure that they were not overheard, leaned forward in his chair.

"John," he confided, "I want to buy O. P. Trusts."

The broker nodded.

"For investment?"

"For a speculation."

Marston looked at his host keenly.

"You know the man who holds nearly all the stock?"

"I know," Hargrave assented. "Andrea Trentino, the man who broke poor Ned Penlow."

"A great pal of yours, Ned Penlow, wasn't he?"

"He was so much of a pal," Hargrave admitted, "that for the last two years I have been wondering whether I wouldn't try to get even with that blackguard Trentino. I came to the conclusion that it might cost even more than I could afford. Within the last few hours I've changed my mind."

"The company isn't doing any too well," Marston pointed out, a little dubiously. "I wouldn't get in too deep."

"That's just the reason," Hargrave remarked, "why I think Trentino will be eager to sell. What I want him to be is just a little too eager. So long as he doesn't know who's buying I should think that might happen."

"You want to control the stock?"

"I want to do more than that—I want to corner it."

Chicago, December 16.—(AP)—In an excited market today wheat prices sprung rapidly over a big range, closing at a record advance after a sharp early break. The fluctuations hinged altogether on swift changes in view regarding a crop report from the Argentine government which to the trade in general appeared extraordinarily optimistic compared with Argentine official figures issued the day previous upturn of 71-4 bushels in prices left the wheat market in the end 8-8 to 8-8 1/2 net higher, new, December 15-15 to 15-1 1/2 and May 15-1 1/2 to 15-1 1/2, with corn 1-3/4 to 1-3/4 up; oats at 1-3/4 to 1-3/4 up, and provisions ranging from 12c decline to a rise of 1c.

2 MEN ACQUITTED OF WEBB KILLING

Lawrenceville, Ga., December 16.—(Special.)—Glenn House and Guy Anderson were today acquitted in superior court of the charge of murder in connection with the death of A. J. Webb, a Milton county deputy in November, 1924.

They were also tried on a charge of assault and battery in connection with the death of Webb and an assault upon County Officer V. V. Hanson, who was assisting Webb at the time of the alleged attack, and were found guilty and were fined $250 by Judge W. W. Stark, presiding.

The killing of Webb took place when it was claimed he was chasing a liquor car at Holcombe, near the Chattahoochee river bridge, and when the car was overtaken a free-for-all fight took place in which Webb was killed and Hanson knocked unconscious and recovered.

Anderson and House were charged with the crime.

The Tri-Weekly Constitution gets the same immediate and careful reading in country homes which daily papers get in city homes.

- It is delivered every-other-day by rural carrier into over 100,000 well-to-do farm homes.
- These farmers pay the full subscription price, and pay it in advance.
- The Tri-Weekly Constitution carries the news of the world every-other-day into these homes—it takes the place of a daily paper.
- The trade of the farmers of the Southeast is well worth going after.

14 Years Of Continuous Service

Fourteen years ago today T. C. Bazemore entered the funeral directing profession in Atlanta, since which time he has devoted his talent to the founding of a rapidly-growing establishment known now as the T. C. Bazemore Company.

Mr. Bazemore is aptly fitted for his chosen profession, having served during the period when all the important changes and improvements in the funeral business occurred.

Among the improvements are included the change from horse-drawn equipment to motor equipment, improved cemetery arrangements, the inauguration of the motor ambulance, the introduction of women into active participation in the duties of the profession and new discoveries as to embalming and preparation of the dead.

Former Atlantan Who Died in Alabama Laid To Rest Here

Mrs. Margaret Lichenstadt, 95, former Atlantan, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. B. McCormack, of Birmingham, according to word received in Atlanta Tuesday.

She is survived by one daughter.

A resident of this city for many years, Mrs. Lichenstadt was the oldest member of the First Presbyterian church. Her husband was the late Dr. M. L. Lichenstadt, who settled in Atlanta before the war between the states, and was well known.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the graveside in Oakland cemetery in this city. Rev. J. Spore Lyons officiated and H. M. Patterson and Son were in charge.

EUGENE LEE HAYNES DIES AT RESIDENCE

Eugene Lee Haynes, 28, 281 McLendon street, died Wednesday night at his home. He was a native of Temple, Ga., but had lived in Atlanta for the past 17 years.

Mr. Haynes was survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dickson Haynes, and a sister, Miss Jewell Haynes.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock Friday morning from the residence. Rev. L. M. Twigg, pastor of St. John's Methodist church, will officiate. The place of interment will be announced later by Blanchard Brothers, in charge.

TEXAS TEXTBOOKS BAN DARWIN THEORY

Austin, Texas, December 16.—The Texas textbook commission has been forced to delete material in a book adopted for the instruction of school children.

The revision committee, appointed by the textbook commission is at work this week revising Truman J. Moon's "Biology for Beginners," adopted by the commission for students of elementary biology. The book has been attacked bitterly by a host of critics who are determined that their children shall not acquaint themselves with Darwin's theory.

Approximately 20 pages of Moon's text will be expurgated by the revision committee before the book is finally accepted and printed.

A typical paragraph from the discussion of the evolution question by Moon follows:

"With an egotism which is entirely unwarranted, we are accustomed to speak of man and animals, whereas we ought to say man is an animal, for certainly man is an animal just as truly as the beast of the field."

This with a good many others will be deleted.

Any reference whatsoever to the scientific deduction that man is descended from the lower animals and any attempt to associate the Biblical and evolutionary theories will be taken out. Even Moon's explanation and defense of the theory will go.

Among the things Moon lists is that "man is descended from a monkey." That statement is inadmissible in Texas.

Church organizations and vigilance committees have had their fight with evolutionists in Texas schools in the last six years. During that time several college professors have been forced to resign their positions, school teachers have been quietly ejected, and students for the ministry refused ordination. Regularly appointed committees make periodic investigations of college class rooms throughout the state.

ROBBERS STAGE FAKE SCENARIO IN HOLDUP GAME

New York, December 16.—(AP)—A robber stood in the doorway and turned the crank of a motion picture camera in the pretense of making a film while his four companions, posing as actors in a movie thriller, held up a dozen members of the Nitty Nitty Republic Club in Brooklyn last night and robbed them of $550 in cash and jewelry. The robbery did not become known until today.

Score of persons who passed believed that a movie melodrama was being enacted. When the robbers disappeared after herding their victims into a back room, passersby realized that the bills the club members had lost were not stage money. The hold-up men escaped in an automobile, taking their camera with them.

I will not be responsible for any more debts incurred by my wife or anyone else, except myself.

Pet Baltimore Oriole Is Found By Ohio Farmer

Grand Rapids, Mich., December 16.—(AP)—Fred H. Hirth, who offered a reward of $10,000 yesterday for the safe return of "Hansi," a pet Baltimore oriole which flew out of the Hirth home Saturday, received the following telegram from Fred Zuhl, a farmer living near Cincinnati, Ohio, today:

"Your oriole found. Wire disposition."

Mr. Hirth got busy. He sent four telegrams, telling how to care for the bird. He then looked up train time tables and found there was no train to Cincinnati until tonight. That was too long to wait, so Mr. Hirth and his daughter started once for the Ohio city in an automobile.

"If they waited for the train, they would not reach Cincinnati until tomorrow morning," Mrs. Hirth explained. "This way they should make it by midnight."

He said he had no doubt it was his bird that had been found.

"Surely a farmer would recognize a Baltimore oriole," he said. "For there isn't another like it in the United States at the present time. They leave for Central America in August and September, you know."

"Money's no object. We'll do anything to get the little fellow back."

Price of Crude Rubber Declines 10 Cents a Pound

New York, December 16.—(AP)—The crude rubber market was demoralized today and prices declined about 10 cents a pound as a result of the nervousness of holders in London and on the continent, and continued lack of support by American buyers. Summertime sheets dropped to 89-3/4 cents for spot, while January-March closed easy at 90 cents offered. Tire factories were reported to have disposed of fair sized lots early today. Prices are the lowest since September 11.

AMERICAN BANKERS JOIN DUTCH RUBBER SYNDICATE

New York, December 16.—(AP)—Driving an opening wedge into the rubber-producing industry of the Dutch East Indies, American banking interests have closed arrangements to participate with the Netherlands on a partnership basis in developing rubber plantations.

The transaction involves the public offerings here of securities of the Dutch-American Rubber Plantation company through Harvey Fisk & Sons, investment bankers, who have representation in the management of the company. The initial offering in this market, which has already been fully subscribed, consists of 500,000 guilders in the form of Guaranty Trust company depository receipts, at a price of $40 per share of 100 guilders. Simultaneous offering of the same amount is being made in Amsterdam.

George Ade in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., December 16.—(AP)—George Ade, noted humorist, arrived in Augusta today to spend a few days here before going to Florida. Mr. Ade said tonight he intends making a trip to the West Indies in the near future.

BANDIT TRIO USES CAR IN RENEWED SERIES OF CRIMES

Automobile bandits renewed their activities Wednesday night by adding two new victims. The robbers were three negroes in both cases, their descriptions indicating that the trio were the same in the two thefts, according to police reports.

Victims were Fred Greenhut, of 161 Biardcliff road, who was robbed in front of his home, of a wallet containing several dollars, a silver cigarette case and a silver match box.

I. Sweet, of 154 Sells avenue, was robbed at 30 Eugen street, of a pocket-book containing $50.

The first robbery was reported to Detective Pate at police headquarters, while Detectives Hiram Davis and "Zip" Cady investigated the Sweet robbery. In both cases the three negroes drove their car along the curb, two getting out to do the hold-up work, while a third kept the car in motion.

TRAFFIC CRUSADE WILL CONTINUE SAY POLICE HEADS

Forty-nine copies of charges for violations of the traffic law are reported.
